No Spy Cases At Oak Ridge

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Aug. 14. "What about spies?" That query runs at least once through the minds of each visitor to Oak Ridge.

There is an answer. Oak Ridge did very well. So far as is known no spy took anything away from this place of mystery, magic and drama. There have been two spy cases involving atomic energy which have stirred the Western world since war's end. In 1946 a British scientist, Dr. Alan Nunn May, received a 10-year sentence for giving a sample of uranium to a Soviet agent. He had done research in Canada in 1945 and had been brought into contact with developments in the United States.

Most sinister of all, and perhaps the only successful spy was the sinister Dr. Klaus E. J. Fuchs, also a British scientist. When the great mushroom of fire and smoke lighted the skies of three States from the testing grounds in New Mexico in July of 1945, Dr. Euchs was there. He was a member of a British mission to the United States.

He was thoroughly screened and was believed loyal. He had access to a great amount of information, according to charges filed against him. Fuchs came back to this country in 1947. In both years, 1945 and 1947, he passed information to Soviet agents. Five Americans were arrested following the breaking of the Fuchs case.

No Success

None had worked at Oak Ridge. So far as is known no spy had any success here in the ridges of the Appalachians, where the gigantic plants were built to produce the bomb. It is easy, so they say, to transmit what was known to a number of physicists, but the rest of it is not.

We have never published what Fuchs confessed to revealing to the Russians. Perhaps he did not tell them as much as he said he did. He lied once. Why not again? Perhaps they did not receive what he told them in clear, intelligible form. At any rate, it is not wise to publish his confession. No one quite trusts confessed spies as no one can have complete confidence in ex-Communists. And the Russians have produced only one atomic explosion.

One arrest growing out of the Fuchs case touched close by Oak Ridge. Alfred D. Slack, a chemist, worked for a while at Oak Ridge. He then transferred to the Holston Ordnance District at Kingsport, Tenn. There a huge plant had been constructed to produce a new explosive, called RDX. It yet is high on the security list. Prior to the use of the atomic weapon, our bombers had begun using some bombs loaded with RDX.

It was at the time the most powerful explosive force in the world. Millions were spent in a plant to turn it out in quantity. One of the buildings is 10 stories high. The plant area was 6,700 acres. Slack got that formula. Harry Gold, Philadelphia research chemist, was Slack's contact as he was also engaged with Fuchs.

Security Measures

Oak Ridge continues with the best possible security measures. There now is in use a machine called the polygraph. A form of it is used by some police departments in examining prisoners. They call it the lie detector. It registers the inner conflict of a man or woman who is trying to be calm and natural while telling a lie or, by evasive answers, withholding the full truth.

All other measures are employed. But Oak Ridge adds the lie detector to supplement them. Those charged with security regard it highly.

America did not by any means discover atomic energy. Even Franklin D. Roosevelt's most bitter enemies must be glad this country had a man of his mind and education. A more practical man, lacking this imagination, would not have gambled on the word of scientists.

In January of 1936 Prof. Niels Bohr came to this country from Denmark. In his laboratory at Copenhagen two exiles from Hitler had made an atomic discovery. At the same time Italy's brilliant Enrico Fermi refused to go back to Fascist Italy from a visit to Sweden. A Dutch chemist, Peter Debye, fled from Holland with the news the Germans were using his lab for atomic research.

These, with others, joined with Columbia University's Dr. George B. Pegram, to produce the first chain reaction in 1942. They, with Prof. Albert Einstein, supplied the recommendation on which Roosevelt acted. Within a year Oak Ridge was under construction.

McCarthy Tactics Hit By Truman

Urges Veterans To Fight Trend

By W. H. LAWRENCE
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—President Truman exhorted all Americans Tuesday to "rise up and put a stop" to character assassins and scandalmongers, some of them in Congress, "who are trying to divide us and confuse us and tear up the Bill of Rights."

Speaking at dedication ceremonies of a $1,000,000 Washington headquarters for the American Legion here, Mr. Truman delivered the strongest denunciation he has yet made of the activities of Sen. McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, and his associates in the so-called Anti-Communist campaign. His speech was carried to the nation by all major radio networks.

Pointing out that the Legion was formed to foster "100 percent Americanism," the President called upon the veterans' organization to take the leadership in the fight against "hysteria" which he said threatened our system of government from within just as the armed forces of International Communism threaten it from abroad.

While he did not mention Sen. McCarthy by name, there was no doubt in the minds of those who heard Mr. Truman that "McCarthyism" was the evil he would have Legionnaires help to eliminate.

COCKE NOT ENTHUSIASTIC

Erle Cocke Jr., of Dawson, Ga., Legion national commander who sided with Gen. MacArthur when President Truman dismissed him, was not wildly enthusiastic about the President's speech when reporters questioned him later. He made it more than clear that he for one would not lead the Legion in any campaign against Sen. McCarthy and others associated with him. Cocke said he had observed lots of people were willing to fight Communism now when they thought fighting it was popular but had taken "a pink attitude a few years ago."

Sen. McCarthy promptly accepted the President's challenge, and declared that "it ill befits the President of this great nation to try to protect the dupes and stooges of the Kremlin by using his high office to attack—not the facts—but whoever attempts to bring the facts to the attention of the American people."

The Wisconsin Republican asserted "the American people are getting extremely sick and tired of the administration's clever method of defense by smearing whoever exposes Communists and corruption in government.

McCARTHY'S REACTION

"It would like to ask the President why he so viciously attacks in general terms those who expose Communists," Sen. McCarthy added. "Why does the President fear discussing the evidence against his planners who have been responsible for the loss of 100,000,000 people a year to Communism since 1945."

Mr. Truman spoke before a crowd of a few thousand persons in front of the Legion building on busy K Street just west of the Statler and Carlton Hotels.

He said that Americanism "is being undermined by some people in this country who are loudly proclaiming they are its chief defenders," who claim to be "against Communism" but who are "chipping away at our basic freedoms just as insidiously and far more

4 Georgia Officials Get Pay Hikes

$3,650 Added For Subsistence

By M. L. ST. JOHN

A Senate resolution, which escaped public notice in the closing hours of the 1951 session, has granted a virtual pay increase of $3,650 annually each to four state officials, it was learned Tuesday.

An audit of the State Treasurer's office showed a new special Treasurer and Assistant Treasurer. A check of the Senate resolution cited in the audit showed that the Secretary of State and Lieutenant-Governor were granted similar subsistance allotments.

The resolution stated that since these officials worked with the General Assembly they should draw the same subsistence as the solons. This is $10 a day. Coupled with other salaries, this makes the Treasurer one of the state's highest paid officials.

The "subsistence" allowance plan apparently was substituted for a bill which would have granted an outright pay raise for the officials.

Treasurer George Hamilton and Secretary of State Ben Fortson, Jr., receive $7,500 annual salary.

Publisher W. R. Hearst Dead at 88

Directed Policy Till Stroke Monday

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Aug. 14 (AP)—William Randolph Hearst, 88-year-old patriarch of publishing, died Tuesday in his Beverly Hills mansion after a series of strokes.

The controversial "Chief" of the vast newspaper and magazine empire had been a working newspaperman almost to the very last. He thus was able to realize a wish he expressed a score of years ago—to die a newspaperman.

Although reduced to near-invalidism in recent years, he still actively directed the editorial policy of the Hearst newspapers until he sank into a coma Monday.

At the bedside when the end came were the Hearsts' five sons, William Randolph, Jr., George, John, David and Randolph. Also there were Martin F. Huberth, chairman of the board of the Hearst Corp., and Richard E. Berlin, president of the Hearst Corp.

Hearst, armed with his father's $25,000,000 fortune, entered the newspaper business when he was 23. He soon became—and stayed—the most spectacular publisher of the modern era in journalism.

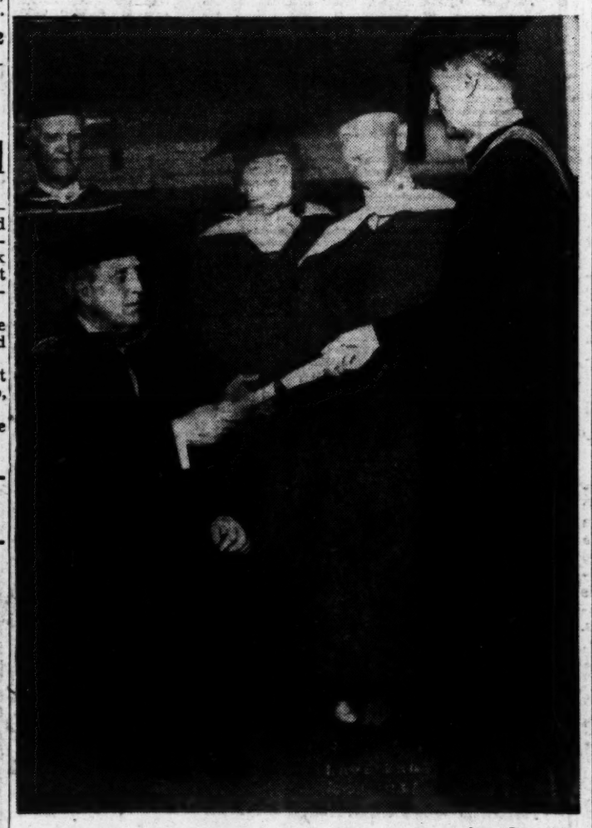

Dr. Myron Prinzmetal, his physician, said Hearst enjoyed "robust health" until four years ago.

"Then," the doctor's statement continued, "he became subject to the ailments of advanced age. Recently, he suffered several cerebral vascular accidents(strokes) from which he never fully recovered. He passed away quietly."

But although he spent much of his time in a wheel-chair in a bedroom of his mansion here, he still gave the orders to his editors.

When President Truman fired Gen. MacArthur, a great Hearst favorite, this spring, the lead editorial denouncing the act was dictated personally by Hearst. Entitled "Made in England," and decrying the U. S. foreign policy, the editorial was on front pages

Utah Prison Rebellion Falls Apart

Convicts Release Warden and Guard

POINT-OF-THE-MOUNTAIN, Utah, Aug. 14—(AP)—A rebellion at the Utah state prison ended suddenly late Tuesday when convicts abandoned a series of demands and released two hostages.

Rioting inmates allowed acting Warden Weston E. Haslam and Guard Edward A. Schmidt to walk to freedom from the maximum security section of the new, multimillion dollar prison at 4:15 p. m. (MST).

A few minutes later fire broke out in an old one-story frame barracks in one corner of the prison grounds.

FIRE LAID TO CONVICTS

The fire was quickly put out with little damage. It started in a washroom from undetermined causes but former Warden T. A. Callicott, now a Salt Lake City County deputy sheriff, said:

"Of course, you can't prove it but it looks as though the fire were started by the inmates."

Gov. J. Bracken Lee, after a conference with prison officals, declared that he recommended that every man in the prison "must suffer" because of the riot.

With order apparently restored, all prisoners in the maximum security cells, except the doomed men in death row, were taken to regular cells for temporary confinement.

GRIEVANCES PUSHED

Warden Haslam and Guard Schmidt, who were not harmed, had been held as hostages since

But the uprising, which drew 150 heavily armed officers from many parts of Utah, collapsed soon after Joseph E. Dudler, state highway patrol chief, conferred with the convicts.

'SALE' BATTLE OVER

Child's 'Two Mothers' Good Friends Now

Two women who waged a grim two-year battle through Alabama courts for the custody of a curly-haired little girl—once headlined as "the baby sold for $500"—declared here Tuesday they are "good friends now."

Mrs. Laymon Alvin Edwards, real mother of four-year-old Jewel Viree Edwards, who was awarded the child by decree of the Alabama Supreme Court last December, and Mrs. Evelyn Sessions, foster mother who formerly had legal possession of the baby, both live in northeast Atlanta.

Mrs. Sessions, who had publicly vowed the Supreme Court decision would not permanently separate her from her adopted daughter, said Tuesday:

"I see Viree almost every day, and she recently spent the night with me. I'm so proud to be with her again."

Mrs. Edwards mused, "There was hard feelings between us all once, but not any more. It's sort of like a happy ending!"

A Bessemer, Ala., probate judge in October, 1949, had granted a final decree of adoption to Mrs. Sessions. His action followed the July 28, 1949, jailing of Laymon Alvin Edwards, then an unemployed miner, in Bessemer on suspicion of "selling" Jewel Viree to Mrs. Sessions and her husband for $500. Sessions was killed in an automobile accident last December.

Mrs. Edwards appealed the adoption decree. It was upheld by a circuit court, but the Supreme

City Ready To Absorb 38 Schools

By HOKE SMITH MAY

Major part of the work necessary for Atlanta to assume operation of 38 Fulton County schools in September has been completed, Miss Ira Jarrell, City School Superintendent, revealed Tuesday.

Miss Jarrell told the Atlanta Board of Education that city and county officials have reached agreement on all major steps in the program. She added that attorneys will begin immediately drafting contracts for operation of the schools until transfer is made on Jan. 1.

Under the Plan of Improvement, the 38 county schools will not become part of the city system until 1952, but Atlanta will take over their operation in September.

County teachers in the schools to be transferred will be placed on city pay scales at the beginning of the new school year, she said. Until 1952, however, they will continue to be paid by the county on a contract basis through the city board.

She said that all but a few details concerning transfer of school personnel have been worked out.

Other major points agreed upon as outlined by Miss Jarrell:

1. The county will contract to operate kindergartens at several places where space is available.

2. Transfer of Reserve Officer Training Corps equipment already is under way.

3. Fulton County will continue to pay for maintenance of the buildings, janitorial services and all supplies until the transfer is made on Jan. 1.

4. Deductions for pension funds of county teachers will be made by the city. The money will be paid over to the county until the funds are transferred.

Miss Jarrell said that no sweeping changes in curricula or operation of the schools will be made immediately. She said changes will come about gradually until the Jan. 1 transfer.

Dr. Charles A. Rife, board member, congratulated both Miss Jarrell and County Supt. Paul West for their work in ironing out problems.

In other actions, the Board approved spending $22.50 a month for telephone service between Aidmore convalescent hospital and Clark Howell School. The services will allow Aidmore patients to hear classroom discussions and ask questions.

Board members passed a resolution expressing regret at the illness of Constittution Reporter Herman Hancock, a veteran of the City Hall beat, and wishing him a speedy recovery.

Joy Rejects Protest For UN Group

TOKYO, Wednesday, Aug. 15—(UP)—The Communists charged Tuesday that United Nations aircraft Aug. 13 machinegunned three Red supply vehicles marked with white flags and wounded two members of the Communist cease-fire delegation.

The United Nations rejected the protest.

The Communist protest said three supply vehicles marked with white flags had been machinegunned by two United Nations planes seven miles southwest of Sibyonni on the road between Kaesong and the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

The protest, made by Senior Communist Delegate Gen. Nam Il, said two officers of the Red delegation were wounded.

Joy's reply was short and to the point. He said no notification of the movement of these vehicles was received as is required, no action is necessary and none is contemplated.

Joy stated that unless the conditions of prior notification of time and route of travel in addition to the proper markings is followed the UN command cannot take action to insure the safety of vehicles serving the Communist delegates.

Allied and Communist negotiators met for an hour and 48 minutes at Kaesong Tuesday as the armistice talks reached a new state of crisis and then adjourned until tomorrow.

The Communists went into Tuesday's meeting faced with a double-barreled warning they must do an about face on their demands for a 38th parallel demarcation line or get ready for a continuation of the year-old war.

Gen. Matthew Ridgway snuffed out any Communist hope for a compromise based on a 38th Parallel armistice line and said the UN will consent to a cease-fire only along the present battle line. He was positive in his statement.

House Says Halt Trade Until Oatis Is Freed

By C. P. TRUSSELL
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—By a vote of 231 to 1, the House of Representatives proposed Tuesday the immediate severance of all commercial relations with Czechoslovakia until William N. Oatis, American Associated Press correspondent, is freed from jail at Prague.

Mr. Oatis, a World War II veteran, was arrested on April 23. On May 16 Prague officials notified the American Embassy that the newspaperman had confessed to espionage. He was brought to trial July 2 and was sentenced on July 4 to 10 years' imprisonment.

The House resolution denounced the trial as "sham," and called on the executive agencies of the government to "take all action possible" to bring about Oatis' release.

The proposal for immediate severance of commercial relations with Czechoslovakia was added to the resolution after it reached the House floor. It was sponsored by Rep. O. K. Armstrong (Rep., Missouri).

The instrument for the Congressional expression on the Oatis case was a concurrent resolution, which now goes to the Senate for its action. It is not binding, but is a formal speaking of attitude by the legislative branch.

The U. S. Government has officially branded as baseless the charges against Oatis.

The resolution's sponsor was Rep. John V. Beamer (Rep., Ind.), where Oatis had begun his press service career.

The House resolution said, in part:

"Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), that the Congress of the United States expresses its profound indignation at the arrest, sham trial and unjust conviction of William N. Oatis; that the executive agencies of the government be requested to take all possible action to bring about his release; and that the sense of this resolution be conveyed by the proper officials of our government to the United Nations and to the officials of the Czechoslovakian government.

"Be it further resolved, that it is the sense of the House that all commereial relations with Czechoslovakia should be terminated immediately, and should be resumed only if and when the government of Czechoslovakia restores to William N. Oatis his freedom."

Rep. Wood (Rep., Idaho), the single House dissenter, said he opposed the resolution because of its reference to and recognition of the United Nations.

"I am as much interested in getting Oatis out of jail as the next man," Wood said, "but not through the United Nations. The same gang that put him in jail is sitting in the UN.

"We should make our demand for the release of Oatis direct."

Iran Negotiations Feared Near Rocks

Softening of British Plan On Oil Regarded Essential

By MICHAEL CLARK
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TEHRAN, Aug. 14—The proposals presented Monday by Richard Stokes, the chief British negotiator, to provide an "umbrella" under which a possible settlement might be found in Britain's oil dispute with Iran met with a chilly reception on the Iranian side Tuesday.

The belief was widespread in circles close to the Iranian government that the critical hour had arrived and that unless Stokes modified his proposals, particularly as they related to the maintenance of a British staff in Abadan under a predominantly British technical management, the negotiations would be broken off.

Stokes' proposals were considered by the Iranian cabinet and the oil nationalization board at a joint five-hour session held in Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's town house. Later Stokes conferred with the Premier for half an hour.

At the conclusion of the cabinet meeting, Hussein Fatemi, assistant to the Premier, said, "Our hopes have waned but they are not lost." He hinted that the cabinet had given thought to the form of proposal that would be acceptable to Iran.

In the view of Finance Minister Mohammed Ali Varasteh, chairman of the Iranian delegation, the outlook was not yet clear. "No decision will be taken until certain points are clarified," he commented. "In any event, the measures we take will be in conformity with the nationalization laws for these we must enforce."

Kazem Hassibi, member of the nationalization board and adviser to the Iranian delegation, said in his personal opinion the British proposals did not meet Iranian wishes nor conform to the nationalization laws.

Pursuing his discreet mediatory efforts, W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's special envoy, went Tuesday morning to see Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi. Later the Shah reportedly telephoned Premier Mossadegh to convey a few words of caution and moderation and to advise against precipitate action.

Tuesday night a spokesman for the British delegation denied reports that Premier Mossadegh had informed Stokes that the negotiations were broken off. He said that Stokes' proposals would be "discussed and clarified" when the two delegations meet Wednesday.

33 Downcast Cadets First of 90 To Leave

WEST POINT, Aug. 14—(AP)—Thirty-three quiet, downcast cadets left West Point Tuesday, the first of 90 accused cheaters to go.

They took it hard. Emotion twisted their faces as they paused at the south gate for a last look backward at the green fields and gray piles of the academy.

Then they shouldered duffle bags and stepped out into the civilian world.

Their departure was scarcely noted as the other cadets went about their normal Summer training duties. A familiar face missing here and there in ranks—that was all.

Another 10 of the erring cadets were due to leave shortly. The remainder of the 90 still are to be processed before they, too, depart. Names of the accused have never been made public except by a few individuals who identified themselves in the group.

All were accused of trading classroom examination information—a breach of the West Point honor code. It was the greatest mass expulsion in the 150-year history of West Point.

The boys who left first resigned from the Academy, accepting a mandate to keep their records clean. However, they left without the thing they coveted most—an honorable discharge.

They left under an administrative order, which labels them neither honorable nor dishonorable.

Included in the group were some of the "Black Knights," varsity stars on West Point's great football team. For many of them, their collegiate athletic careers were over.

Some colleges have said they have no room on their football rosters for the cadets.

However, some of the youths still hoped to find a haven elsewhere. One—who would not allow his name to be used—said he had tentative plans to enter Pennsylvania State.

Others gave serious consideration to Francis Cardinal Spellman's offer of academic asylum in three Catholic men's schools in his New York archdiocese.

From the superintendent, Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving, on down, the Academy called the cadets "basically honorable."

Savings Bond Sales Lower

Georgia's U. S. Savings Bond sales for the first seven months of this year are approximately $7,000,000 behind last year's sales, but prospects for the remainder of the year are brighter, State Director of Savings Bonds Joe G. Woodruff announced Tuesday.

Sales of series E, F, and G bonds total $24,012,659 for Jan. 1 through July 31, 1951. This compares with $31,064,758 for last year. This year's goal is $60,000,000.

Woodruff pointed out that the sale of E bonds has increased 15 percent over last year's sales. He said that investment buyers have switched from F and G bonds to higher paying stocks and municipal bonds.

Total sales last year amounted to $59,932,890, including a special treasury authorization sold to banks amounting to $11,634,766.

Last year the special bond campaign was held in the spring. This year it will begin Labor Day and extend through Nov. 13.

AFL Votes To Dissolve CIO Tie

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution
By LOUIS STARK

WASHINGTON, Aulg. 14—Organized labor's "general staff," formed last December to deal with problems of defense mobilization and wage-price control, faces early collapse.

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor has authorized William Green, AFL president, to take steps to dissolve the partnership that has hitherto united the AFL and the CIO in their attempt to attain common objectives.

This action was taken late last week at the AFL council meeting in Montreal but was not made public.

The fight to break the ties that have been forged between the two labor federations in the last nine months was led by George Meany, AFL secretary-treasurer

OFFICIAL SURPRISED

A spokesman of the CIO expressed his "surprise and astonishment" at the AFL governing body's decision.

It is understood that Green was requested by the AFL council to advise the international Association of Machinists and the Railway Labor Executives Association of the decision. Together with the CIO and the AFL these organizations constitute the United Labor Policy Committee.

The resolution adopted by the AFL council is in the form of a recommendation that will go before the AFL annual convention to be held in San Francisco, beginning Sept. 17.

Since seven of the thirteen members of the executive council who were present favored the action it is unlikely that the convention will turn down the recommendation.

CIO PROFITING

After that, Green will formally advise Murray that thenceforth the two organizations must go their separate ways.

The principal argument advanced by those who supported the drastic move when the question was raised without advance notice by Meany was that the CIO had been profiting by the AFL-CIO collaboration while the AFL had not.

It was recalled that Murray was an advocate fo what he calls "functional unity," that is, day by day collaboration on specific objectives.

By learning to work together in the legislative and economic field, Murray believed, the two federations might eventually work out a solution of their difficult jurisdictional problems.

But the AFL's undeviating policy was "organic unity," that is the working out of a direct merger of the two organizations.

Multi-Billion Foreign Aid Cleared for House Action

U. S. Destruction Said Red Aim

By FELIX BELAIR, JR.
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—Warned in a report from its committee on foreign affairs that "the present rulers of the USR are obviously dedicated to the destruction of the United States," the House cleared the way Tuesday for action on a military and economic foreign aid authorization of $7,848,750,000 in fiscal 1952.

Already cut in committee by $651,250,000 from the $8,500,000,000 requested by the administration, the measure faces attempts at still further reductions when debate begins Wednesday. As it now stands, the bill would authorize $6,013,000,000 for planes, tanks, guns and other military equipment and $1,835,750,000 for economic and technical assistance.

Paving the way for an uphill fight for its recommendations, the foreign policy group told the House there seemed no possibility of diverting the men in the Kremlin from their intention to destroy America "except by building strength which they know they cannot overpower."

ON FLOOR TODAY

The omnibus authorization bill was ordered brought to the House floor Wednesday after a lively session of the rules committee during which one member, Rep. Brown (Rep., Ohio) announced that he was "damned tired" of requests for clearance of legislation without knowing what it contained.

The Ohio legislator complained specifically that while vast sums of money would be authorized for expenditure in Western Europe and other areas according to military and economic purposes, there was no way for a member to learn from the bill what countries would get how much.

Rep. Richards of South Carolina, chairman of the foreign affairs group, told Brown that "frankly, we're not in a position to make that public."

RUSSIAN HOODLUMS

In another spirited outburst, Rep. Lyle, Jr. (Dem., Texas) and a rules committeeman, demanded to know for what reason "that gang of no-good Russian hoodlums" was invited to take part in negotiation of a Japanese peace treaty.

After Rep. Brown remarked with heavy sarcasm that the Russians had been "our glorious allies," Chairman Richards commented he did not think much of the Russians either but had no power to exclude them from the Japanese peace talks.

But Rep. Lyle had still some things to get off his chest. One of them was that he was getting tired of "these damn fool statements" by Prime Minster Jawaharlal Nehru of India in attempting to advise this country on the Japanese peace treaty. He complained more specifically that Mr. Nehru apparently wanted to give Formosa to the Chinese Communists.

So Birmingham's Legally Wet Again

BIRMINGHAM, Aug. 14. (AP)—The blushing city commission, which accidentally voted Birmingham dry last week, made the town legally wet again Tuesday.

The commission had intended to outlaw only drinking of bay rum, paint remover, and other "skid row" substitutes for alcoholic beverages.

City attorneys discovered, several hours too late, that the resolution covered too much territory. A newspaperman noticed the mistake.

A carefully drawn law which rectified the error was passed Tuesday.

Cancer Research Fund for College

Three cancer research grants totaling $25,603 were awarded the Medical College of Georgia, at Augusta, Tuesday by the National Cancer Institute in Washington.

Dr. H. E. Nieburgs received a grant of $13,000 to finance, in consultation with Dr. E. R. Pund, the screening of 20,000 women over 19, in an effort to determine the incidence rate and means of controlling cancer of the cervix in a normal population.

With another grant of $8,233 to the college, Dr. Nieburgs will study cancer of the cervix among women at the State Hospital at Milledgeville. A third grant of $4,370 will finance a study of detection and hormonal therapy of prostatic cancer.

Liquor Termed Spur to Inflation

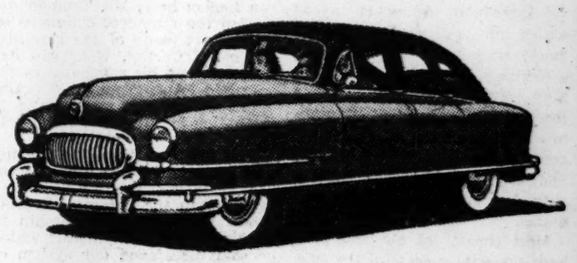

BOSTON, Aug. 14 — (AP) — A noted statistician Tuesday charged the liquor traffic was "inviting inflation" by wasting manpower and materials.

Roger W. Babson, of Wellesley, told the 77th Annual Convention of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union:

"In one year 168,000,000 bushels of grain, 560,000,000 pounds of potatoes, and 600,000,000 pounds of other valuable food stuffs went to producing liquor, while President Truman pleaded for grain to ship abroad."

Babson said valuable manpower needed to produce the armaments "is being used to produce and distribute this non-essential and nonproductive item."

Aggressor Mauls U. S. Units Second Day of War Games

By CHARLES CORDDRY

WITH AGGRESSOR FORCES IN NORTH CAROLINA, Aug. 14—(UP)—"Aggressor" armored units with supporting infantry mauled the U. S. infantry badly Tuesday and if the umpires hadn't stepped in, the Carolina war games might have been turned into a rout then and there.

The "aggressor" was supposed to lose Tuesday, according to the Army's master plan for Operation Southern Pines. However, the seasoned troops making up the "invader" units couldn't lose for winning.

In the day's major engagement, the 82nd Airborne Division's 714th tank battalion, supported by companies of the 504th Airborne Infantry, attempted futilely to seize Gaddy's Mountain for the U. S. forces. The mountain is about seven miles west of the Fort Bragg cantonment.

The U. S. forces were able to beat back "aggressors" defenses, which were led by a battalion of Third Armored Cavalry, only after the umpire, Col. Horace Charles Parker of Hampton, S. C., ordered the green-clad enemy off the hill.

He got stiff protests from aggressor units commanded by Capt. Felix Garcia of Mercedes, Tex., but Parker was adamant.

Brig. Gen. Henry J. D. Meyer, former 24th Division artillery commander in Korea who is now commanding the aggressor, ordered an immediate counter-attack. Inside an hour, the aggressor had bumped the U. S. off the hill again, much to the umpires' chagrin. Finally, Meyer retired his forces to the line seven miles west of Fort Bragg, in accordance with the maneuver directors' plan. But before he did so, two of his tank forces had chewed up the 82nd's line, causing a delay in the division's attack to the west.

One of these tank units penetrated the 82nd front early Tuesday and rolled almost to the outer limits of the Fort Bragg cantonment without opposition before Meyer recalled it. A similar penetration had cracked through the 82nd's troops Monday, catching the troops completely unaware.

Talmadge Observes Child Injury Decline

Gov. Talmadge has issued a proclamation commending Georgia for a downward trend in traffic accidents involving children.

The proclamation, which coincides with a Child Safety Campaign being sponsored by the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers and local safety councils in co-operation with the State Safety Council, urges this decrease "be the impetus needed to get in behind the campaign and put an end to loss of life among children, due to carelessness in driving and wilful disobedience of Georgia's traffic laws."

Women Officers Sought by Navy

Young, unmarried Georgia women who are college graduates apparently are losing interest in becoming officers in the Navy after leading the nation for two months in volunteering.

Naval officer procurers are having trouble filling their August quota.

A recruiter will be at the Georgia Savings Bank building Wednesday and Thursday. Qualified applicants are offered commissions as ensigns, with interesting duty aboard supply, hospital and other Navy vessels, and duty in Hawaii, England, and Alaska, in addition to the United States.

Razing of Hospital Landmark Heralds Beginning of New Era at Milledgeville

By CELESTINE SIBLEY
Constitution Staff Writer

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 14. Wrecking crews are at work this week on a picturesque old brick building which has been in use on the State hospital grounds since 1882 and instead of cries of anguish which may have sounded over the loss of a landmark, cheers are heard over all Milledgeville.

The destruction of the building, known as the old Colored Building, represents more than the end of a rat-infested old fire trap.

It is the beginning of a new era.

NEW WAY OF LIFE

The scrape of crowbar on plaster, the groan of falling timbers, the collapse of a brick wall mean to the 11,000 population of the world's second largest mental hospital that a new way of life is fast arriving.

Patients at Milledgeville, although still crowded, still lacking many things which they need, are better housed and better fed than at any period in the hospital's recent history.

The Old Colored Building, if not the last of the ancient horrors, was the worst—and it has been replaced. Others are slated to go as rapidly as the $8,000,000 bond fund authorized by the last Legislature can be borrowed against.

The Old Colored Building was a three-story firetrap, housing more than 1,000 Negro men and women. It had holes in the floor, faulty wiring, cell-like rooms with no light at all, approximately one leaky toilet per 200 patients, and the horrible nightly spectacle of ill people jammed together like cattle in the hold of a ship.

Those who were lucky enough to have a bed at all slept 20 to a room designed for eight or 10. The others dragged out mattresses and slept on the floor in halls and dayrooms.

MODERN BUILDINGS

Now those patients have been moved into modern one-story buildings where the danger of fire has been practically eliminated, where the floors are not splintery wood, pitted and scarred by years of scrubbing and the ceaseless pacing of the mentally ill. The new colored buildings are patio-type structures built around a small area-way, where patients may get out for exercise and fresh air as often as they choose. In the old building patients could leave their rooms only when accompanied by an attendant, but their use of the patio is practically unrestricted. There is no danger of their wandering off and one attendant can keep an eye on a greater number of patients.

True, even the new buildings are crowded. The $700,000 Holly Building houses 600 colored women where it was built to take care of 450. In many cases a room has six or eight beds where four could be more comfortably accommodated; but the point is that everybody now has a bed—every patient has a small bit of space of his own.

SIMILAR HOUSING

The Ingram Building, named for Joe Ingram, a Negro employee of the hospital for many years, provides a similar type of housing for patients who formerly knew the desolation of the old Colored Building.

While administrators are jubilant over the going of the old landmark, they also are eager to relieve the congestion and old-fashioned inconveniences of the twin buildings and the center building.

A new building for white men is about two-thirds completed. One of the outstanding dental infirmaries in the state recently has been completed and occupied. A $1,200,000 warehouse, cold-storage and distribution building is nearing completion. This building will house business administration offices and a cafeteria for employees.

Food at the hospital has in recent years been nourishing and plentiful is not exciting. The farm provides an abundance of fresh vegetables and dairy products, but just recently a touch of glamour has been added to the menu—fried chicken once a week!

The ancient, time-honored system at many public institutions was practiced at Milledgeville for years. The hospital bought wholesale quantities of chicken backs and wings to provide a weekly delicacy for the patients.

"It was chicken," a woman patient said, "but sometimes it was just chicken enough to make you go wild wishing for a good drumstick, crisp and fried just-so."

PLATTERS OF CHICKEN

Backs and wings, the hospital felt, went further and were used with dumplings or in chicken pie. But since the inauguration of a poultry farm several months ago, the kitchen sends up great golden platters of fried chicken once a week. Modern brick poultry houses have been built, and the hospital now raises 2,000 broilers a week with 4,000 fryers coming to the table regularly and 24,000 broilers constantly on the way. Hen houses are now under construction, and by mid-Winter the hospital is expected to have 20,000 layers to provide eggs for the table.

The poultry project, which is managed by W. H. Chapman, not only offers food for the patients' bodies but it represents valuable therapy for their minds, physicians say. One patient who worked with the chickens recently recovered and now is out of the hospital and in the poultry business.

"Patients are extremely good with the chickens," Manager Chapman said. "Sometimes they send me convicts for the heavy work, but I'd rather have patients because they seem to take a real interest in working with the chickens."

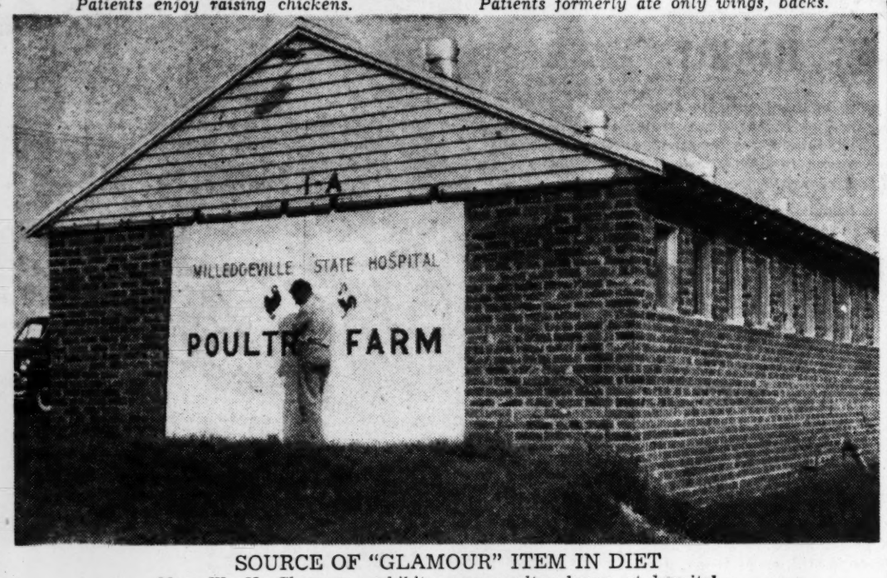

Farm production has been stepped up as much as 50 percent in the last three years. The installation of an irrigation system three months ago brought on what one farm worker called "the dangest lay-out of beans and corn I ever saw." The irrigation system pumps water from the Oconee River into the fields during drouth, saving entire crops.

Says Sinatra Tried To Hit Him With Car

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14—(AP)—Detectives are investigating a photographer's complaint that singer Frank Sinatra almost ran him down with his car last Tuesday.

Bill Eccles, photographer for the Los Angeles International Airport, signed the complaint last Tuesday night. That was the day Sinatra and Actress Ava Gardner returned from a visit to Mexico together.

Eccles' complaint said he tried to photograph the couple in Sinatra's car. Sinatra then bore down on him and yelled: "I'll kill you next time," Eccles said.

The complaint did not use Miss Gardner's name. It said Sinatra had a "female companion."

Detective J. R. Gouldstone said the complaint was turned over to him Tuesday for investigation. He will report to the district attorney, who will decide whether a formal complaint will be issued.

Eccles' complaint was filed at the police station in suburban Venice, which has jurisdiction over the Los Angeles airport.

PRESSURED WINNERS HELD MIS-LED

3 Phone Canvassing Schemes Investigated

By ANNE GOWEN

Three advertising schemes, using phone calls to lure unsuspecting Atlantans into appointments with high-pressure salesmen, are under investigation by the Better Business Bureau.

The schemes were termed "misleading" by James W. Stephens, manager of the bureau. They are designed to promote photographic studios, vacumn cleaner merchants and jewelry stores. Since promise of gifts and coupons are made over the phone, it is difficult to prove charges of fraudulent advertising, he said.

An Atlanta housewife, who answered an advertisement offering "extra money" in exchange for "telephone work," found herself the unwitting instrument of such a campaign. She was told that she would make appointments with housewives for demonstrations of a vacuum cleaner not yet on the market, promising them a free gift. Later she discovered the cleaner was a nationally known brand, definitely on the market, and that at least one housewife had not received the gift promised a month before.

In another such scheme, an anonymous telephone voice informs the person who answers the call that his phone number has been "selected for our quiz," and that if he answers a question correctly he will receive a "gift coupon" for $1, entitling him to a free oil portrait. When the "winner" appears at the studio he is bombarded with sales talk about additional pictures, frames and other merchandise.

A third scheme involves a radio commercial advertising "free diamonds," specifying that each stone must be mounted in a setting bought from a downtown jewelry store. One woman reported to the Bureau that the setting was priced at $55.

Such advertising is "certainly not in the best interest of business," Stephens said, and damages the reputation of legitimate advertisers who use canvasses and surveys to introduce a new product. He advised Atlantans to be sure advertising schemes were legitimate before entering them as consumer or solicitor.

"If you don't know your merchandise, know your merchant," Stephens warned.

Snake Gulps One Egg Too Many, Traps Self

ELBERTON, Aug. 14—(AP)—A five-foot chicken snake swallowed one nest egg too many at Albert Dye's hen house.

After crawling into a nest and downing one china egg, the snake poked his head through a crack into the next nest and gulped down another.

That pegged the reptile. The first egg kept it from going on through, the second from withdrawing.

Soviets Push Trade With E. Germany

By DREW MIDDLETON
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

BERLIN, Aug. 14—Russian economic advisers are urging the East German economists to strengthen their trade ties with the Soviet Union and the satellite states and to regard trade with Western Germany as a necessary but temporary expedient to start a five-year plan.

Both the Russians and the members of the ministeries of internal and external trade in the government of the Communist republic understand the immediate importance to the economy of that republic of a new trade pact with Western Germany. That is why the Soviet Union is expected ultimately to back down on the dispute over certificates of origin and open the way for a resumption of trade with the West.

But it is clear from recent reports from the Eastern zone that once the East Germans' five-year plan is well started, trade with Western Germany will dwindle year by year.

What is happening in the economic field fits the political policy as it has been developed by Walter Ulbricht.

This shows a steady withdrawal from the policy of unifying Germany toward greater political integration with the Soviet Union and the satellites. Politically and economically East Germany is moving faster and faster into the Russian system. Although it has been looted and relooted by the Russian army and Russian economic missions for six years, East Germany remains a rich prize. Good judges in West Berlin believe that when its industrial production and its skilled manpower are considered together, the German democratic republic is the most important addition to the Soviet economy since the end of the war.

The heavy demands on the East German workers, the ruthless elimination of marginal industry by the Russians, and the continuous propaganda campaign for greater economic productivity have had their effect.

The gross national product of Eastern Germany now is reckoned to be 103 percent of 1936. This, in view of the devastation of the war and the first months of Soviet occupation, compares rather favorably with the present gross national product of the Federal Republic of West Germany which, with Economic Co-operation Administration aid, is 113 percent of 1936.

Marriage Mill Under State Probe

Lively competition for "marriage-mill business" in North Georgia has caused one Rossville physician to face possible loss of his license for making speeded-up pre-marital blood tests.

Witnesses told Dr. T. F. Sellers, director of the Georgia Department of Public Health, at a hearing at the State Capitol Tuesday that Dr. W. A. Avakein was making blood tests of Tennessee couples wanting fast marriages at half the authorized time required.

Dr. Avakein branded these charges as false, and said they were made by employes of a competing blood testing laboratory. He said that friends of Dr. J. P. Hoover, who operates two of the five laboratories in the little border town, once blocked the door to prevent persons from entering the Avakein laboratory. Avakein said he called the police.

The fast activity in marriage-boom Rossville was shown by one witness who said he rendered assistance to Ray Crow, justice of the peace at the border. He said he checked the blood test laboratories before lunch to see if any couples were waiting for tests. He said if any business was waiting, the justice of peace would stand by; if not, he would go to lunch.

Defending Dr. Avakein, this witness also said that Chattanooga taxi drivers had complained the Avakein laboratory was slower than the other laboratories. Cab drivers who haul couples from Chattanooga to Rossville for the blood test and marriages said they lost money when waiting for the tests at the Avakein laboratory.

Dr. Sellers took the case under advisement.

Not the hair you lose that makes you bald, expert says

"No man ever got bald from the hair he lost," declares specialist S. J. Mueller, director of the South's largest organization of professional trichologists.

"You'll naturally lose almost every hair on your head—all 121,000 individual hairs—about every three years," Mueller says. "But you'll naturally grow 33 miles of hair in the same time to replace all you've lost. When replacement lags, then baldness starts.

"So it's hair growth, not hair loss, that determines whether you'll end up with a shiny pate."

This famous specialist emphasizes that treatment in his clinic falls into two phases:

1. Corrective period. In this first phase, Mueller experts employ fast-acting germicides and scalp cleansers to make the scalp ready to grow hair.

2. Stimulative period. Once the scalp is clean and sterile, growth of new hair is hastened with special therapy and subscalp stimulants.

Does Mueller's method actually grow hair?

Best evidence on that point, perhaps, is the fact that this organization has grown quickly from one clinic to 10 clinics in the larger Southern cities.

95% Satisfied

Mueller research statistics prove that 95 per cent of those who take treatment are satisfied. And Mueller specialists have hundreds of client photographs and statements to substantiate all their claims.

"Truth is," Mueller maintains, "you'll find it's not much more trouble to grow hair than to grow bald. Once we start your hair to growing again, you just have to observe simple but correct habits of hair care that we show you."

If your hair is thinning, visit the Mueller clinic as soon as possible. Don't delay; your case can get to be hopeless.

You don't need an appointment. You won't be embarassed or obligated. You'll find the fee quite reasonable—and no higher than last year.

Progress in Georgia Prisons

It is a tribute to Georgia's progress in penal reform that the legislative committee which has completed an inspection of all county work camps and state prisons found no criticism of the treatment of prisoners.

The committee did find physical facilities at 12 county camps lacking and the State Board of Corrections properly ordered the offenders to improve the camps within 10 days or present plans for complete rebuilding. Three of the counties so criticized—Greene, Jasper and Spalding—already have announced plans for rebuilding.

It is significant, too, that the committee's only criticism concerned prison camps operated by the counties. All state institutions were given a clean bill of health. The county-operated camps are the last obstacle to a perfect score for all Georgia prisons and the fact that fault was found with only 12 of them out of a total of 93 is encouraging.

Georgia has come a long way since a book and a subsequent moving picture brought shame upon the state's penal system. The continuing investigation by the penitentiary committee of the General Assembly, with unannounced calls upon the various prisons, is further evidence of the state's determination that its prisons shall be beyond reproach. And the speed and firmness with which the State Board of Corrections ordered the indicated improvements at the camps found inadequate is to be commended.

The time long since has passed when fugitives from Georgia prisons could justifiably fight extradition from other states by complaining they were mistreated. But our state, unfortunately, has a bad name to live down and we can do so only by making certain our prisons are run properly.

We congratulate the Legislature's penitentiary committee for a job well done. Let the Board of Corrections follow through with its orders and make sure the needed changes are effected.

We Can Be Sure Moscow Is Up to No Good

Whatever may be Russia's motive in deciding suddenly to send delegates to the Japanese peace conference at San Francisco, we may be sure Moscow is up to no good.

This country is especially anxious to complete a treaty with Japan and has made no secret of the fact it intends to work out a bilateral security pact with the Japanese as soon as the peace treaty is signed. Such an agreement would give the United States the right to continue to maintain the present occupation troops in Japan with the difference that they then would become garrison troops for the protection of our interests in the Pacific. That is what Russia would hope to head off by upsetting the San Francisco conference.

Moscow has contended all along the proposed Japanese treaty is illegal and, until now, neither Russia nor the satellites have taken part in the negotiations.

The Western countries long since have become accustomed to the sudden twists and turns of the Soviet line and it is unlikely they will be deceived where the Japanese peace treaty is concerned.

Good News About U. S. Highway 41

Georgians who have followed with intense personal interest and much concern the varying fortunes of U. S. Highway 41 greeted with pleasure Tuesday an announcement by State Highway Board Chairman Jim Gillis that the important traffic artery will be made a four-lane road south from Atlanta as far as Barnesville.

The plan is termed long-range, but that it is even on the books is good news. A four-lane roadway south to Barnesville together with the four lanes soon to be completed to the Rome "Y" above Cartersville will give Georgia over 80 miles of superhighway leading into the capital city.

The highway department announcement explained that the road builders are turning southward because a traffic survey shows the need for multiple lanes is greater there than on the Cartersville-to-Chattanooga section of U. S. 41.

We can understand that. Someday when conditions warrant it, we'd like to see a four-lane historic parkway between Atlanta and Chattanooga. For now we'll settle for a double-track road to Cartersville and the extension of four lanes toward Macon.

And Macon, ultimately even Savannah, should be the objective. A superhighway as far as Barnesville must be only the first step toward a more distant end.

Dr. James E. Paullin—a Great Man of Medicine

In a busy lifetime, during which he was a tremendous force for good both in his own profession and elsewhere, Dr. James Edgar Paullin deservedly received most of the honors that can come to a medical man.

Dr. Paullin, who died Monday at the age of 69, long will be remembered not only for his own outstanding ability but equally for his contributions to medical education. His intense interest in education of young doctors led him to remain a member of the faculty at Emory University Medical School long after his fame and heavy private practice made almost impossible demands upon his time. He resigned his teaching position regretfully in 1949 with the title of professor emeritus of clinical medicine.

In June of 1950, Dr. Paullin's former students and fellow physicians formed the James Edgar Paullin Scholarship for worthy medical students. An associate has described the scholarship as "the closest thing to Dr. Paullin's heart" and suggested that since the family has requested no flowers at the funeral, donations be made, instead, to the scholarship fund. It is a suggestion we gladly pass on as in keeping with Dr. Paullin's great interest in medical education.

Among the highest tributes that can be paid to Dr. Paullin is the fact that he was known as "a doctor's doctor." A native of Georgia, he brought honor to his state as a leader in his profession. He was president of the American Medical Association in 1943. He also served as president of the American College of Surgeons, Interstate Postgraduate Medical Association, American Clinical and Climatological Society, Medical Association of Georgia, Fulton County Medical Society and others.

He was a medical officer with the Army in World War I and in World War II made a 25,000-mile trip through the Pacific recommending extensive medical facilities for natives of the region. He was awarded the President's Medal for Merit for this and other contributions during the last war. The Presidential citation is the highest award a civilian can win.

Dr. Paullin's dramatic, desperate dash to the bedside of the late President Roosevelt at Warm Springs was one of a number of times that he was called into consultation concerning Mr. Roosevelt's health.

Vice-Admiral Ross T. McIntyre, former surgeon general of the Navy and personal physician to President Roosevelt, summed up the national feeling when he declared that with Dr. Paullin's death "the nation has lost a very valuable citizen not only in the field of medicine but in a field where patriotism and judgment are so badly needed . . ."

Georgia was especially proud of Dr. Paullin and joins the rest of the country in mourning his death.

'Best State in 48'

The Editors: Five or six weeks ago I wrote to you asking if you could help me to find correspondents in Georgia. You were good enough to publish my letter and the result has been wonderful. I am afraid it won't be possible to answer all the interesting letters I received, but from the people I've decided to write to (and with whom I hope I shall have a permanent correspondence) I'm sure I shall get to know a great deal about your state.

Your kindness in publishing my letter, and the response from your readers, has confirmed my opinion that Georgia is the best state amongst the "48."

Dairy Thanks

The Editors: Your editorial in behalf of the proposed Animal Nutrition Laboratory for the Dairy Department of the University of Georgia contributed greatly toward making this much-needed addition possible.

As you may know, the Governor has authorized that the sum of $35,000 be appropriated from unused Milk Board funds for this purpose.

It is a hopeless understatement for me to say that we of the dairy industry are deeply grateful for your very valuable assistance.

Is Our Strategy Right?

WASHINGTON—Some of the most brilliant men in the Defense department are taking a hard new look at American strategic planning. They are beginning to ask themselves whether our basic strategic concept—the way we intend to fight a war if war comes—should not be recast, root and branch.

A nation's war strategy must be based on its actual military situation. Since the Korean war began, our real military situation has been rapidly changing.

On July 1, 1950, we had nine under-strength divisions; a mothball Navy; and a 42-group Air Force. We had an alliance with Western Europe which was a fake alliance, since Western Europe could not be defended. By July 1, 1952, we shall have the capacity to put about 50 extra-size full-strength divisions into the field in the first year of a war—about twice as many as could be shipped overseas in one year. We shall have a Navy which should be capable of dominating the seas absolutely, a strong Naval air arm and a powerful Marine Corps. We shall have a 95-group Air Force, and whatever the precise outcome of the present air power dispute, the Air Force will then certainly be scheduled to grow rapidly larger.

Not Assuring All this gives no grounds for complacency. The balance of power in conventional arms is still certainly with the Soviets. Europe is still, as of today, almost certainly indefensible. Yet the planners, rightly or wrongly, look forward to a time when the balance in conventional military power will be at least partially restored, and when Western Europe will have a really serious defense.

Now consider the second category of power—atomic power. Here very much greater strides than is generally realized have been made. It can be said that the American atomic potential, by July 1, 1952, will be so great that atomic bombs can be regarded as more expendable than the planes which carry them. Nor is this all. For the first time, because of significant reductions in size and weight, atomic bombs can be carried in light planes, or delivered by guided missiles. This means a greatly increased atomic potential, because deliverability is just as important a factor in atomic power as the size of the stockpile.

In brief, our real military situation is certainly changing. And the best men in the Pentagon are beginning to think that at least at some time in the future, when the balance in conventional military power begins to be restored, our basic strategic concept should change also. The fact is that our war strategy has rested squarely on population bombing.

The Ugly Truth To put this ugly fact bluntly, our willingness to use atomic bombs against the largest Russian population centers, in order to cause enormous civilian casualties and thus to disrupt the Soviet industrial and political system, has been the heart and soul of our war planning. This strategic concept, however hideous morally, has been wholly correct, since this willingness has been the only deterrent to Russian aggression.

Yet its weakness is very evident. Population bombing precludes that alliance with the Russian people which such Soviet experts as George Kennan consider the real key to victory. A war which ended with the great cities of Eurasia—or even only of the Soviet Union—in ruins, is not a war which could properly be said to have been won.

The planners are beginning to wonder whether our exclusive emphasis on population bombing may not be a hangover from the time when we seemed permanently condemned to hopeless weakness in the conventional arms, when a limited atomic stockpile was really all we had. They are asking themselves whether warfare might not be returned to the battlefield, where it belongs, and to the area which directly supports the battlefield.

Retaliation Might it not be possible to hold population bombing in reserve, as an overwhelming retaliatory weapon, to be used only in case of atomic attack on our own great population centers, and those of our allies? Might not bombing priorities be assigned instead to enemy air fields, atomic plants and stockpiles; to relatively isolated critical installations like hydro-electric power plants and oil refineries; to lines of communications and military installations behind the front; and to heavy enemy troop concentrations?

These questions are being asked only very tentatively, and it is easy to find reasons why they should be answered in the negative.

But it is well to remember what we so tragically forgot in the last war—that the aim of war is not confined to simple military victory. A war based essentially on unlimited population bombing simply could not result in real political victory. And this is why it is good that these questions are being asked, however cautiously, in the Defense department.

Cooling Off the Hot Rods

Troopers connected with the Perry station of the Georgia State Patrol are to be congratulated on their crack-down on young hot-rod drivers who have been for a number of months using a stretch of the Macon-Perry highway for periodical and unauthorized stock car races.

Bonds were set at $100 for two participants who were nabbed during the progress of a hot-rod race. A number of others who had gathered shortly after midnight to participate in or witness the races escaped down side roads. But the crack-down will serve as a cooling agent for the hot-minded young drivers.

What the troopers in the Perry area have accomplished, other troopers in Georgia might tackle. The highways and streets of this and other states are dangerous enough in the present age with people driving safely and at moderate speeds. Tremendously increased traffic has stepped up the hazards of traveling. But if youngsters with a heavy foot and a light head are permitted to run loose on the highways with jalopies that take off in a cloud of dust and run wide open all the time, the thoroughfares of travel will soon be certain killers.

The rise of a generation of hot-rod "happies" emphasizes, more than ever, the need for adequate schooling in driving, safety and the rules of the road. The time to teach youth the need for safe driving is when youth is learning how to operate an automobile. That a motor vehicle can be as dangerous as a loaded pistol in a gunman's hand must be taught before one has become a victim of the speed craze.

Parents who have supervision over both the youth and the car are prime factors in developing a careful driver. But proper instruction under a skilled teacher can instill the fundamentals of good driving—just as a good mathematics teacher can lay the groundwork for addition and subtraction in the mind of a pupil.

Bringing the hot-rodders to halt is an important work of law enforcement. But we've got to start earlier if the country's accident toll is to be reduced.

Big Doin's Up Under Brasstown

A well-known North Georgia ridge runner who prefers anonymity and likes to be called the Old Man of The Mountains came by early this week to report all well in Gilmer and adjoining counties. Asked about the climate thereabouts, he vowed that he drove over icy pavement coming to Atlanta. In fact, he said the ice was from an inch to four feet deep at one place on the Canton Highway. Under the heat of interrogation, he confessed that a truck loaded with 300-pound blocks of ice had tangled with a passenger car and turned over "to spill the entire load smack in the middle of the road, thus to create a traffic block, an unusual August situation and a lot of comment needing explanation."

What the OMOTM really came by for was to make me an honorary mountaineer of the Brasstown Bald gang and to invite me and the rest of the world to the Georgia Mountain Fair. This hill country festival will be held all next week at Hiawassee, on the banks of Lake Chatuge and in the shadow of the 4,798-foot hunk of hill which rates as Georgia's highest. The fair is sponsored by the Hiawassee Lions and backed by all the farm and forest service agencies, state and federal.

The biggest day, Wednesday, Aug. 22, will feature two T's, Talmadge and Transportation. The former, the Governor that is, will speak. The transportation angle will be a parade exhibiting carry-alls from the ox cart to the latest 1951 180-horsepower cabriolet.

Don't let the word get back to The Lady Who Reads Over My Shoulder, but, according to The Towns County Herald, there'll be antiques on exhibit at the fair all week. And on Saturday many of the exhibits will go on the auction block.

What I've read, what the Mountain Man has told me, convinces me that they're really putting the little pot in the big one up under Brasstown next week. They'll have the latchstring out at Hiawassee, which the mountain Lions modestly term "The Gateway to Georgia's Grandeur."

New York Police and the CIO

NEW YORK—The Transport Workers' Union, one of the most dangerous mob-forces in the country, has "organized" an unknown number of the policemen of the city of New York. This union demands absolute obedience of its members, including policemen, to Mike Quill, a faker who for a long time promoted a myth that he had been shot by the British Black and Tans while soldiering in the Irish republican army. The Dies Committee later made him admit under oath that he sprained his hip as a youth. Another witness testified that Quill told him his hip was dislocated at birth. The injury caused him to limp and gave him an excuse to carry a blackthorn stick suitable for maiming or killing law-abiding Americans in union riots. New York policemen have a number of grievances, but they are themselves in part to blame for their financial problem because they insist on preserving a legal right to retire after 20 years' service. Thus, men in the prime of life can quit the force on guaranteed social security far above the average available to most other citizens and take other jobs on full pay to supplement their pensions.

During the war, the Associated Press carried the following item under a New York dateline: "The greater New York CIO Council tonight elected Michael J. Quill, head of the Transport Workers' Union, as president and voted to establish what was termed a 'standing army' to be on call for picketing and mass demonstrations. The action taken to set up a reserve 'army' was approved as part of a recommendation by the council's executive board. Saul Mills, re-elected executive secretary, told the delegates the executive board had 'come to the conclusion that a standing army of several thousand CIO members in New York, composed of a given number of people designated by each local union, should be on hand to respond to any call for picketing or other activity.'"

This council, under Mike Quill, who now would become supreme commander of the police force of the city of New York, at the same meeting decided to work for its political ends through the American Labor Party which was and remains notorious as a transparent front for the Communist treachery.

The Saul Mills referred to, who announced that the CIO was organizing a "standing army" here, subsequently vanished from New York and reappeared in Shanghai as representative of the Communist International among the directors of that military power which American soldiers, including some from New York, are fighting in Korea. Quill would seem to have no excuse for not knowing all about Mills.

The threat to organized lawful government and public security contained in this routine item about the formation of the standing army of the CIO to take to the streets for "other activity" more violent than picketing did not cause serious public alarm. Fiorello La Guardia, who was mayor at the time, was a political partner of Vito Marcantonio, the favorite son of the Quill organization, and he made no open move to rebuke the challenge.

After the war there was a "house-cleaning" and the CIO, now professing to be patriotic and hostile to the organized treason of the Communist conspiracy, threw out a number of unions which had been notorious Communist agencies. Quill and Joe Curran, the president of the CIO sailors' union, professed to be anti-Communist although both had been intimate with the Communists for years and had co-operated with them until this sudden strange maneuver, which still may prove to have been a feint to throw the public off guard.

The CIO Council which formed the "standing army" for rioting was dissolved and a new one was formed under the same advocates of direct action. This is the authority which New York policemen are now joining, although in what numbers the public does not know. George Monaghan, the New York police commissioner, has forbidden the cops to give to any labor union authority to represent them as policemen.

JOHN MARVIN RAST

"Beloved, thou doest faithfully whatsoever thou doest to the brethern, and to strangers." (3 John 5.)

The Master made plain the truth that we cannot expect extraordinary reward for kindnesses rendered to those of our own family or circle of friends.

He did not discourage such thoughtfulness. Indeed He encouraged it. He simply said that it carried its own reward, normally being returned in kind.

We all live in the midst of crucial need: poverty, illness, perversity.

To claim Christian discipleship and to go our way unconcerned, unmoved to lighten loads of all that we can, is to deceive ourselves.

The surprises of Heaven will be how little or how large the treasury of our investments in those least prepared to return the favor.

OUR FATHER, OPEN OUR eyes to behold opportunities of ministering in Thy name. Strengthen us as we seek to strengthen others, in the spirit of Christ.

'U. S. Prestige Is at Stake'

The writer is a native German, having been born in Berlin and educated in Germany and Switzerland. In 1949 he attended Harvard University as an exchange student. Besides being the author of four books and doing free-lance work for German newspapers, he for a time did radio broadcasts for the United States Department beamed at Iron Curtain countries. He also was a professor at the American University at Berlin. In 1950 he was married to Miss Jeanette Lander of Atlanta. He now is en route to Monterey, Calif., where he will teach in the Army Language School.

The American case in Berlin—in all of Germany, in fact—is threatened. Furthermore, the American-German amity in Berlin, this Russian-surrounded island of freedom behind the Iron Curtain, is endangered by the doubtful attitude of the American High Commission toward a series of kidnappings by the Soviets.

Berliners who have been faithful to the democratic idea even in days as hard as during the Air Lift begin to be skeptical as to whether they have been treated right in the recent past and whether they now would have that moral readiness and vigor to resist another Communist blockade of their city.

Being endangered, by day and night, by Russian secret police agents and German agents working for the Soviets, they want one thing to be absolutely sure: that the Americans in Berlin will never fail to support them against the most dangerous form of Eastern terror—kidnapping. But just this was not the case in a series of the most alarming abductions of German citizens. In hundreds of former occurrences of this crime, the Western authorities in Germany have denounced the immoral, illegal, and terroristic methods of the Red totalitarians; they have promised the most severe punishment of all collaborators in kidnapping; they have told the Germans that law and order come first and have re-educated them in the ideology that the freedom of the individual is sacred.

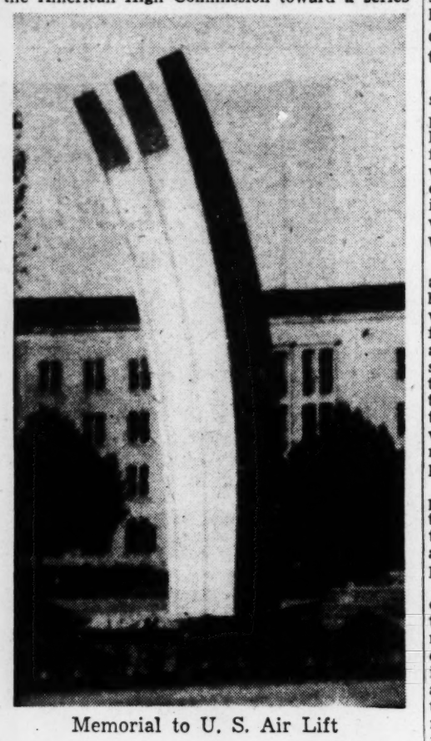

But this is what has happened: Dr. Hans Kemritz, a former Nazi and officer of the German army, worked for the Soviet Security Police following the armistice of 1945. He lured about 20 West Berliners, living in the American sector, into the Russian sector where they were seized by the Soviets. At least five, perhaps more, died. A leading American licensed Berlin newspaper publicized the case and one of the widows filed suit against Dr. Kemritz. And then the disturbing thing happened: the Allied High Commission prohibited the Germans from taking legal action against Dr. Kemritz—for in the meantime Dr. Kemritz had switched sides and was working as intelligence agent for the Americans. The question is: Are spies, agents, and intelligence officers beyond the law? The American attitude is understandable: they want to protect their own agents. But the German attitude is equally understandable and, from a moral point of view, even sounder: kidnapping is a criminal offense under all circumstances.

Many believe the moral position of the U. S. A. in Germany is at stake. The occupation is over; troops are stationed there for the defense of the West. Germans are expected to contribute to West European freedom from Soviet domination in due time.

What, however, is the American answer to German accusations of their protecting a professional betrayer? (Dr. Kemritz' whereabouts are unknown.) American officials have voiced the opinion that Dr. Kemritz' actions were legal under the postwar rules of punishment of war criminals. But why, then, was kidnapping necessary if these people were war criminals? Why were they not legally arrested by the Americans and turned over to the Russians?

The Kemritz case is not finished yet, but the damage to American-German relations and to American leadership is already tremendous.

Anyone who has been in Berlin recently, as has the writer, knows of the disappointment of the people of this city. The fear of being kidnapped, the discouragement to resist Communist infiltrations, the skepticism toward American protection grows steadily. This is exactly what the Russians want but cannot achieve with their own propaganda. Have the Americans decided to help them—knowingly or unknowingly? The moral depression is great in this courageous city which has withstood Soviet pressure successfully for more than six years. Is this the end of Berlin's faith in American justice and co-operation? There can be only one hope: that the American officials change their attitude before it is too late. This is a vital condition in the fight against communism. Berlin, Korea, Jugoslavia, Hungary may seem to be far off to the average American citizen. But in the present-day world nothing is far off from him—for the enemy is just around the corner.

Reds' Own Jap Treaty Draft Expected

By LINDESAY PARROTT
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TOKYO, Aug. 14—The Soviet Union's delegation which Tuesday will come to San Francisco to participate in the Japanese treaty conference may be expected to arrive with its own draft of peace terms in its brief cases, official sources here indicated Tuesday.

The Russian proposals are expected to be widely different from the terms hammered out among the Western leaders for the past year and it is the principal feeling here that delays and some possible compromises—perhaps not advantageous to Japan—will result.

But at least some Japanese observers believe the Russians, by participating in the meeting, have laid themselves open to demands for an explanation of two issues which are among the chief of those existing between this nation and its former opponents in the Pacific war.

WAR PRISONERS

The Russians are likely to be asked with some emphasis what has happened to 340,000 Japanese war prisoners still unrepatriated from the Soviet Union six years after the end of hostilities. The second question may be what is the Russian conception of the return of the Japanese territories in the Southern Kurile Islands to which even the Czarist governments made no claim but which passed to the Soviet at Yalta.

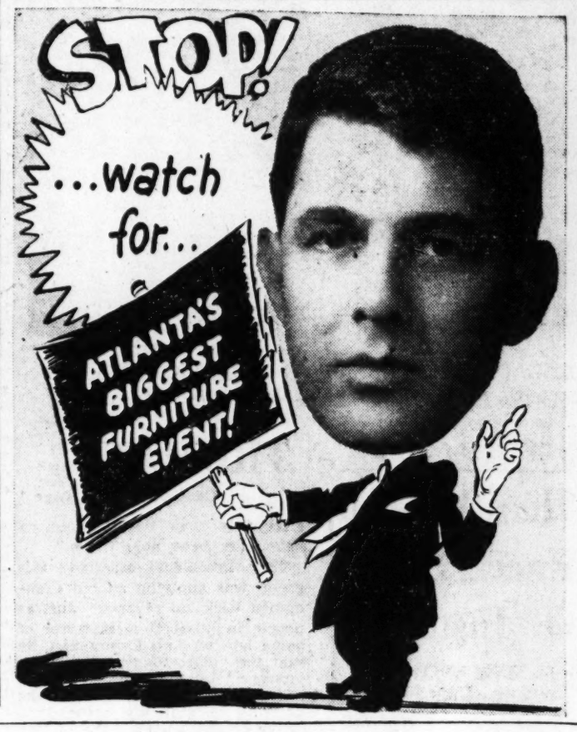

The whole subject of Russian participation Tuesday is being thoroughly canvassed not only by the Japanese foreign office but also by the governmental and opposition parties.

While it appears to be the general opinion the Soviet decided to take part largely to throw a monkeywrench into the workings of the Western draft treaty, there is also some gratification that, as a result, the Japanese will get better knowledge of what the Communist demands may be against this defeated nation.

There is little question in official circles here that the general outlines of the treaty will be much altered by the Russian decision to enter the conference. The foreign office attitude—possibly based on the impression conveyed by special Presidential Envoy John Foster Dulles during his visits here—is reported to be that the United States government will continue to press for adoption of the American draft.

Even if alternate terms are produced by Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko, and the others—who are also expected here to introduce the veto question—they certainly could be outvoted by the nations generally apparently already agreed on the United States conditions.

HOW YOU CAN MAKE AMERICA STRONG — II

WORK LIKE YOUR LIFE DEPENDED ON IT —IT DOES!

Let's stop talking about this crisis, and do something.

All the words in the world aren't going to make us strong enough to defend ourselves from attack.

Work will.

Plain, unadorned, dull, routine work.

We are the people who have got to provide the things needed to protect our freedom. Not necessarily working in a defense plant, either. Some of us will be making defense materials, but most of us must remain at our jobs.

And we must work hard at those jobs.

We don't have to wait for a go-ahead from the government.

We can start today. Work harder, work better, produce more. The more we put out, the more we produce.

Multiply that a few million times, and America has more goods, more products, more wealth, to foot our freedom bill.

It's going to be a big bill.

American brawn and brains can pay it.

Let's get going.

There Are No 'Unimportant' Elections

One of the saddest things to come out in the Eastman Times-Journal's commendable investigation of fraudulent voting in Dodge County's recent no-fence election was this quotation from a man who is supposed to be a law enforcement officer:

"I thought it was a pretty good election considering what it was held for."

He didn't think it was important; so apparently he does not think it makes any difference whether it was honestly conducted or not.

Listen, brother—and sisters, too: If we in this country want to keep our freedom and keep some power to say who will rule over us, we'd better treat EVERY official election as an important one, even if it's on the subject of a no-fence law for Summer gnats.

Not even 99 44/100 per cent honesty makes an election "pretty good." Nothing less than a 100 per cent honest count of every ballot cast can protect our American way of life.

There is no such thing as an "unimportant election."

There is no better way to remind ourselves and all our public officials that we like the form of government that we have and intend to keep it, than to form the habit of going to vote in every election for which we are qualified.

Every vote in every election reminds ALL of our public officials that the people still have the power to determine who shall rule them.

Every honest vote in every election, no matter what the subject, is a vital thread in that safety line which American boys have suffered and died to hold firm against tyranny anywhere.

KNOW YOUR GEORGIA — by C. J. Holleran

Georgia Was Once a Nation!

Following the Revolution, Georgia's world status was that of a free and independent nation! During the years before the Articles of Confederation were adopted by all of the colonies, Georgia, although believing in the Union, was more interested in developing efficient self-government, as assurance of her future if the new Federal Government did not function as planned. In fact, she frequently did not have representation in Congress because her leaders, (and the people) had so little interest in the national picture that they did not insist on attendance by those elected to the House and Senate. As an example, in 1784, Georgia was allotted six seats in the Congress, but only two were ever filled! Georgia's legislative structure was set up on the basis of a self sufficient republic, not as a unit of a confederation of states. In 1785 the Assembly passed a naturalization act. To become a citizen a year's residence was required. If at the end of that period, a grand jury certificate, stating the applicant was honest and a friend of the state, could be secured, the rights of citizenship were granted, and the applicant became a Georgian.

UN Airmen Rip Targets Unopposed

Troops Strengthen Ground Positions

By MURRAY SCHUMACH
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TOKYO, Wednesday, Aug. 15—United Nations warplanes roared in strength over North Korea Tuesday, taking advantage of the clearing weather to blast the Communists harder than at any time in the last few weeks. From Japan and Okinawa, bombers arrived in swarms to join up with the fighter aircraft that took off from Korean bases.

The enemy was bombed at the front lines and at the rear as the fliers tried to make up for the time lost by a spell of foul weather during the last two weeks. Not a single enemy plane rose to meet the UN fliers and the jets swept the skies along the Yalu River with impunity. Only one of the UN planes was lost and that was shot down in the Pyongyang area by ground fire.

The UN ground forces also improved their positions, throwing back Communist attempts to wrest high ground from them. Under the protection of heavy artillery barrages the UN infantrymen seemed to have quelled any threat that might have existed in the increasing number of Chinese small-scale attacks.

In the area around Inje, Kansong and Hwachon, where the Communists have been having slight successes in attacks during the last few days, the UN forces had apparently made their own position more secure and more readily defensible and in some cases had retaken positions lost to the enemy earlier in the week.

However, it was from the air that the Communists took the worst drubbing. The North Korean capital of Pyongyang was a scene of flame and explosions as waves of planes swept in over the target in a wave of fighter-bombers that knocked out 17 antiaircraft positions. The bombers then pounded explosives over supply and ammunition depots and rail yards.

Milk Bottle Thrown In Fight Kills Child

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 14—(AP)—A youth who threw a bottle at his brother and killed a four-year-old girl was charged with manslaughter Tuesday.

The victim was Ann Aiken, whose throat was cut by a shattering half-pint milk bottle. Charged with the killing was Alfonso Warren, 16, Detective Inspector B. J. Roberts said.

The detective said Warren admitted throwing the bottle during a fight with David Warren, 17.

CHILD WITH UNUSUAL MALADY RECOVERS FROM OPERATIONS HERE

LOTS OF FIGHT IN HER

Marianne, 3, Survives 5 Serious Operations

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Winsome three-year-old Marianne Alexander has "a lot of fight" in her.

Her mother, Mrs. H. C. Alexander, says that's why Marianne has survived five serious operations.

The dark-eyed little girl, a patient at St. Joseph's Infirmary, recently underwent operations on both her kidneys.

A staff physician said the case was rare. He estimated not one child in a million has had two such operations.

The doctor said Marianne's malady was similar to that of Forrest "Nubbins" Hoffman, the little Colorado boy who became famous by celebrating Christmas early. "Nubbins" later died.

Marianne's doctor said her case was unusual in that both her kidneys were affected. And he believes Marianne is "going to be all right."

Born with several "obstructions" of the kidneys, tubes and bladder, Marianne was a pale, sickly baby. Doctors told her mother they doubted she would live six months.

SURGERY AT SIX MONTHS

She first underwent surgery when she was six months old—and she has been in and out of hospitals ever since.

Her current hospital stint already has stretched to seven weeks. The surgeon removed part of her right kidney pelvis and enlarged the opening to the ureter (tube leading to the bladder) four weeks ago.

Mrs. Alexander, who lives in Louisville, Ga., said Marianne would be here at least two more weeks. But Marianne doesn't mind much. She knows all the nurses, sisters, many of the patients, the elevator operator and even the cook at the hospital—and they shower her with attention.

64 GET-WELL CARDS

Marianne has received 64 get-well cards and she knows who sent each one.

The hospital cook brought her two bouquets of flowers. Her doctor gave her a puppy which she kept in her room—and sometimes her bed—for several days, despite hospital regulations against dogs.

Marianne's 11-year-old sister, Willa has had rheumatic fever since April and she spent a week in the same hospital room with her.

Mrs. Alexander, whose husband died two years ago, explained Marianne was the youngest of five children.

"We have had a lot of sickness," she said, "I just knew Marianne was going to die. But thanks to the Lord, the doctor and my baby's fighting spirit, she is getting well!"

To this is added the new $3,650 in subsistence. Assistant Treasurer Horace Hixon receives $4,800 and $3,650 subsistence, and Lieutenant-Governor Marvin Griffin receives $2,000 salary and $3,650 subsistence. In addition, Hamilton during the past fiscal year got $1,200 as Bond Commissioner and $1,307 traveling expenses. Hixon got $753 as Assistant Bond Commissioner and $243 traveling expenses.

The "subsistence" plan follows the pattern set in giving additional funds to Justices on the State Supreme Court, Judges on the State Court of Appeals, and special aid given Superior Court Judges and Solicitors-General by the Legislature in lieu of salary increases. The General Assembly also hiked its own remuneration by increasing its "subsistence" $5 a day.

COST INCREASES

The audit showed the cost of operating the Treasurer's office increased from $45,275 to $51,222 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1951.

Cost of operating the Legislature increased from $413,565 to $578,923.

Cost of operating the Supreme Court increased from $131,984 to $150,337; cost of the Court of Appeals increased from $109,467 to $124,721, and cost of operating the Superior Courts increased from $292,145 to $356,000.

MOTHERS

Court ruling reversed the lower court's decision.

Jewel Viree's "two mothers" had a reconciliation here recently. Mrs. Sessions was already living at 745 Drewry St., N. E., when the Edwardses three weeks ago took an apartment at 81 Spruce St., N. E.

Edwards is supporting his wife and two daughters "by working day and night," Mrs. Edwards declared. An electrician by day, he sells soft drinks at Ponce de Leon baseball park at night.

Jewell Viree calls Mrs. Edwards "mother" and Mrs. Sessions "Aunt Evelyn." Tuesday night she hugged both and was all smiles as the little group prepared to go to the ballgame.

prison. We made no promises except that we will give them a hearing again." He referred to those prisoners placed in maximum security since he took over as acting warden.

The inmates had requested the hearings, less "agitation" by guards, no reprisals for Tuesday's riot and full assurance of these demands in writing. They also asked that Haslam be named warden.

Haslam stated that Alwin Strauss and Wayne Johnston, serving terms for grand larceny, were responsible for the trouble. The same pair was involved in an escape attempt in June.

Haslam said the trouble started when convicts jumped Schmidt and took his keys. Then Strauss held a knife against the back of Haslam, who had gone to death row to deliver some shoes. Later Strauss left the maximum security area and attacked Guard C. Wayne Hoobler with a chain.

Eliseo J. Mares of Antonito, Colo., a convicted murderer, was wounded when he attempted to aid a prisoner who objected to the riot, Haslam said. Mares suffered a superficial knife wound in the stomach. Haslam said that either Strauss or Johnston wielded the knife.

The uprising was the third since May at the new prison, 15 miles south of Salt Lake City.

Health Group Faces Loss Of Insurance

By HOKE SMITH MAY

Employees of the City Health Department are facing loss of group life insurance rights when they transfer to the County Department on Jan. 1 under the Plan of Improvement.

Dr. J. F. Hackney, Atlanta Health Department director, Tuesday told trustees of the City Group Life Insurance Fund that his employees are vitally interested in continuing the life insurance benefits and urged the group to investigate a possible course of action.

City Comptroller L. A. James, secretary of the fund board, explained that the County does not maintain an insurance plan for its general employees. He added that there is no provision in Plan legislation requiring the County to provide the life insurance program.

However, he will make a definite effort to negotiate some plan with the present insurance company to continue the coverage.

In another action saw the Trustees recommend that group life insurance benefits for City employees be increased from $2,500 to $4,000. The increase would have to be passed first by City Council's finance committee.

Extension of Lights

Council John A. White, Tuesday proposed a five-year plan to extend Atlanta's street lighting program to annexed areas under the Plan of Improvement.

White, chairman of Council's city electric lights committee, said he would make the proposal through the City Budget Commission. Dewey L. Johnson, city superintendent of electrical affairs, estimated that White's proposed program would cost $3,000,000.

White outlined a priority plan for the program which would light business districts first, main thoroughfares second and residential streets last.

More Candidates

Number of candidates in Atlanta's Sept. 12 primary increased to 31 Tuesday.

Edgar W. Wilson, of 1478 Willis Mill Rd., S. W., qualified for the Ninth Ward Councilman race in position two. He is opposing Charlie Leftwich and W. W. (Bill) Melvin.

Deadline for entries in the three ward races is noon Saturday.

TRUMAN

effectively than the Communists have ever been able to do."

The President asserted this group was applying an old Communist trick "in reverse." Just as people in Russia live in terror of being labeled Anti-Communist, he said the "scaremongers and hatemongers" in America, employing character assassination and the doctrine of guilt by association, "have created such a wave of fear and uncertainty that their attacks upon our liberties go almost unchallenged."

IRRESPONSIBLE ATTACKS

"They are filling the air with the most irresponsible kinds of accusations against other people," Mr. Truman asserted. "They are trying to get us to believe that our government is riddled with Communism and corruption—when the fact is that we have the finest and most loyal body of civil servants in the world. These slandermongers are trying to get us so hysterical that no one will stand up to them for fear of being called a Communist. . . .

"We want to protect the country against disloyalty—of course we do. We have been punishing people for disloyal acts, and we are going to keep on punishing the guilty whenever we have a case against them. But we don't want to destroy our whole system of justice in the process. We don't want to injure innocent people. And yet the scurrilous work of the scandal mongers gravely threatens the whole idea of protection for the innocent in our country today."

Even loyal Legion members, he said, "have no way of telling when some unfounded accusation may be hurled at you, perhaps straight from the halls of Congress."

AMERICANS IN PERIL

All Americans are in peril, he went on, "when even one American—who has done nothing wrong—is forced by fear to shut his mind and close his mouth.

"It is the job of all of us—of every American who loves his country and his freedom—to rise up and put a stop to this terrible business." The President declared "this is one of the greatest challenges we face today. We have got to make a fight for real 100 percent Americanism.

"You Legionnaires, living up to your constitution as I know you want to, can help lead the way. You can set an example of fair play. You can raise your voices against hysteria. You can expose the rotten motives of those people who are trying to divide us and confuse us and tear up the Bill of Rights.

"Now go to it, and God bless you."

Jesse Walton Back; Plans Undetermined

Jesse Walton, who recently resigned as head of the Amalgamated Street Car Local Union No. 732 in Atlanta, said Tuesday he still has not made any plans for the future.

Walton, who has just returned from one-week "rest" trips to North Carolina mountains and Florida, said he is leaving soon for another visit to the mountains—"On Top of Old Smokey."

Nation's Editors Honor Wm. Randolph Hearst

Tribute Paid to Publisher For Newspapering Genius

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

His fellow newspapermen offered final tribute to William Randolph Hearst Tuesday on editorial pages across the nation.

The New York Daily News in its lead editorial said:

"Mr. Hearst, born April 29, 1863, died yesterday. He was a great newspaperman."

His own New York Journal-American, in a black-edged full page editorial, called Hearst "the last of the dauntless pioneers, the last of the indomitable individualists."

"The world has lost a colossus," the Journal-American mourned.

Said the Buffalo Courier-Express:

"William Randolph Hearst was perhaps the most controversial figure in the history of American newspapers. Certainly he was the most sucessful. . . . Good taste forbids selecting this moment for debating the Hearst influence on American Journalism. But it was a tremendous influence—and those who try to shrug it off as 'yellow journalism' forget that the originator of that type of newspaper was not Hearst but an editor now recognized as a giant of his craft —Joseph Pulitzer."

The Indianapolis Star said:

"William Randolph Hearst was a patriotic American who consistently defended the principles of American liberty and democracy with all the vigor at his command. In a half century that has seen treason flourish, he was a giant of loyalty."

Hearst's own Daily Mirror in New York, in another black-bordered editorial, said:

"William aRndolph Hearst . . . possessed a prophetic vision, a capacity to project his mind into the future and to risk action, whether popular or unpopular, with a daring and courage unparalled in modern journalism . . .

"Few men have been right so often and yet so far ahead of acceptance as to be regarded as wildly wrong."

Miami Daily News: Controversial is the word that seems almost inadequate when it is applied to William Randolph Hearst. In his truly remarkable career as a newspaperman he toppled conventions in American journalism. He projected violent issues into American politics and history. He is even credited—if that is the word —with starting a war, the Spanish-American War in which American public opinion was inflamed by Hearst press opinion. His was a picturesque, at times arrogant, always potent factor in the American scene during his entire adult life.

Nashville Tennessean: There is a certain pathos in the quiet passing of the old journalistic war horse. For all of his wealth and fame, he failed to achieve that which he most desired. He could never capture the wholehearted affection and confidence of the American people without which his ultimate ambitions were always beyond his reach.

Nashville Banner: The roots of his personality and career were grounded as deeply in American soil as those of the magnificent cedars thrusting skyward on his large estate in northern California. Grossly misunderstood at times, deliberately maligned by those he fought and by those who could not control him, Hearst was a defender of the great fundamentals of the American heritage.

$1,500,000 Cash Left Mrs. Hearst

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14—(AP). The will of William Randolph Hearst, newspaper and magazine publisher who died at his Beverly Hills home Tuesday, leaves $1,500,000 in cash and the income from a $6,000,000 trust fund to his widow, Mrs. Millicent W. Hearst.

The will, consisting of 57 typewritten pages and including nine codicils, was filed for probate late Tuesday in the Los Angels County Superior Court.

One codicil, dated Aug. 15, 1947, bequeaths the publisher's Beverly Hills home to former screen actress Marion Davies. Another, dated Sept. 8, 1948, revokes the bequest without explanation.

The former codicil provides that the home go to Miss Marion Douras (Miss Davies' legal name), "who came to my aid during the great depression with a million dollars of her own money, thereby doing much to save myself and my institutions from financial disaster at that time."

It provides that not only the home, but all furniture, furnishings, fixtures, silverware, chinaware, works of art, antiques and other contents go to Miss Davies.

The will provides that the estate is to be divided into two trust funds, one the family trust and the other the residuary or charitable trust.

Strikes Slow Europe Music, Leide Reports

Indifference to the Korean war and strikes ranging from sit-down to musical "tone downs" in Western Europe were reported Tuesday by an Atlanta orchestra conductor just returned from the continent.

Enrico Leide said the thoughts of most Western Europeans, who like to consider themselves "satellites" of the United States, is concerned with what they will do when they lose Marshall Plan and ECA aid.

Mention of the conflict in Korea, he said, is confined to the back sections of newspapers.

The conductor said sitdown, sick and slow-down strikes are not unusual among the people he described as "a bit lazy" because of U. S. handouts. Musicians, he said, even stage "tone - down" strikes, playing softly when the conductor asks them to play loudly.

Enrico Leide

The conductor said sit-down, sick tour of Western Europe in their trip to Venice where the rotund pince-nezzed musician conducted at the Venice Opera House for the Festival.

U. S. Tax Lien Hits Lookout Gaming Firm

U. S. Internal Revenue Collector Marion H. Allen Tuesday filed a tax lien in excess of $8,100 on all property belonging to Concessions, Inc., front organization at the Lookout Mountain Hotel.

The lien was levied against the chartered organization which bought tax stamps for gambling machines at the lodge. Two weeks ago a lien in excess of $400,000 was filed against the firm's president, alleged liquor czar John Horace Bowen.

Allen maintained a "no comment" on the latest development.

Initial action by the government followed soon after Constitution Reporter Keeler McCartney and Photographer Tom Aldred visited the lodge and did a picture story on gambling activities at the mountain resort.

A Constitution reporter who visited the hotel Tuesday night found no gambling devices apparent and the bar closed.

Confessing Trusty Attempts Suicide

A 22-year-old Negro trusty, who last Thursday broke into the farm home of Mrs. Ruth Addington in Gwinnett County and brutally beat her about the head, has been transferred to Tattnall Prison at Reidsville after a suicide attempt and a confession of the crime, police said.

Gwinnett Sheriff T. J. Johnson said that Willie Ford Ballard attempted to hang himself with a towel and rope hung from a pipe in Fulton Tower.

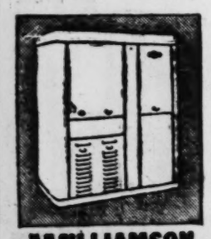

Mrs. Addington is in fair condition in an Atlanta hospital.

of all Hearst newspapers at the time.

The big question—who will run the publishing empire now?—was partially answered in a statement by William Randolph Hearst, Jr., publisher of the New York Journal-American. Addressed to the publishers and editors of all Hearst newspapers, it read:

"It is with profound regret that I and my brothers apprise you of the passing of our beloved father, William Randolph Hearst.

"Will you please convey to the readers of the Hearst newspapers our pledge to continue to operate our father's publications as he guided us, and our determination to carry on in the tradition of his life which was dedicated to the service of America and the best interests of the American people.

"In this sad announcement, I am joined by our mother, Millicent Willson Hearst."

Hearst, Jr., is a member of an eight-man board of trustees which runs the various Hearst enterprises now.

Henry S. Mackay, Jr., personal counsel for the publisher, said in a statement:

"As will be shown by his last will and testament when it is filed for probate, he leaves the bulk of his estate for the benefit of his fellow Americans—for charitable, religious, educational, literary, scientific and public purposes."

SIZE OF ESTATE

The size of the estate is not known now but at its peak it was valued at $200,000,000, about 12 years ago.

About four years ago, when his health failed, Hearst moved to Beverly Hills from his ranch at San Simeon. He had lived there as a legendary feudal lord for years.

Midway between Los Angeles and San Francisco, San Simeon was the most fabulous dwelling place in the U. S. It is valued at an estimated $15,000,000.

Beverly Hills, though, had been a second home to Hearst because of his movie enterprises. He formed International Films in the early twenties to make a star of Marion Davies, a Ziegfeld Follies beauty and model for artist Howard Chandler Christy.

Miss Davies became one of the top stars of the silent screen while working for Hearst. The former protege remained a confidante and friend of Hearst until the end.

BORN IN SAN FRANCISCO

Hearst was born in San Francisco, an only child. He inherited the vast fortune of his father, George Hearst, a former U. S. Senator from California.

At the time of his death, Hearst owned the San Francisco Call-Bulletin, San Francisco Examiner, Los Angeles Examiner, Los Angeles Herald and Express, Chicago Herald-American, Boston American, Boston Record and Boston Sunday Advertiser, New York Journal-American, New York Mirror, Albany Times-Union, Baltimore News-Post and Sunday American, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Detroit Times, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, San Antonio Light and Milwaukee Sentinel.

The American Weekly, biggest of all Sunday supplements, was Hearst-owned as was King Features Syndicate, which distributed the Hearst comics and other news features. The International News Service, an international wire service, was also a Hearst property.

Among the Hearst magaznes were Good Housekeeping, Harper's Bazaar, Cosmopolitan, Junior Bazaar, House Beautiful, Town and Country, Motor, Motor Boating, American Druggist, and Connoisseur, the latter published in England.

Hearst's five sons all are connected with the vast enterprises.

Hearst Owned Georgian; Gave Freely to Oglethorpe

William Randolph Hearst introduced his famous brand of journalism to the South here through the Atlanta Georgian which he purchased from Publisher Fred L. Seeley in 1912.

The Chief, as Hearst was widely known, paid visits to Atlanta to direct the paper during the twenties. He sold it in 1939 to Gov. James M. Cox. Editors, reporters and printers of the old days recall the dinners Hearst gave for them at various Atlanta clubs.

HONORED BY SCHOOL

He was a benefactor of Oglethorpe University and made his last visit to Atlanta May 22, 1927, to receive an honorary LL.D from the school.

On that occasion Hearst spent a long week end here, arriving on Friday night to confer with executives of the Georgian. Saturday morning he attended a lecture at Oglethorpe by Dr. Warren K. Moorehead, curator of the museum and professor of anthropology, who received an honorary doctor of science in the same ceremony which honored Hearst.

The Woman's Board of the University was host to the celebrated publisher at an afternoon reception, and he was guest of honor and main speaker at a dinner University authorities arranged at the Biltmore Hotel.

One thousand persons crowded the dining room to hear him. Speeches of welcome were made by Gov. Clifford M. Walker, Atlanta's Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, and Constitution Publisher Clark Howell.

Hearst accepted the honorary degree of law in a special ceremony following Oglethorpe's commencement. Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, university president, made the award.

In 1913, Hearst made the single largest gift—$5,000—towards the founding of the college, and he continued to support the school with gifts. In 1927 he presented the university with $25,000 and in 1930 with $100,000.

In 1936, he gave the school 400 acres of land, including Silver Lake, which was re-named Phoebe Lake honoring Hearst's mother, Phoebe Apperson Hearst. He continued to make generous gifts. In 1946 he gave $100,000 and in 1947 another $100,000.

A son, John Randolph Hearst attended Oglethorpe during the school year 1927-28. Another son, Randolph Apperson Hearst, began his journalistic career on the staff of the Atlanta Georgian. New Request for Ruling In School Row Predicted

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook may be asked again to decide whether the State School Superintendent or the State Board of Education has the authority to do the hiring and firing for the State Department of Education, now that J. R. Wommack, ousted employee of the department, has challenged State School Supt. M. D. Collins' authority, state capitol observers said Tuesday.

Wommack has appealed his dismissal to the State Merit Board. The Merit Board may ask the Attorney General for a new opinion before deciding on the case, observers explained. It will hear the case later this month.

Commenting on Wommack's claims, Collins late Tuesday said: "I will merely cite the Attorney General's opinion of Dec. 22, 1950, in which he held that the Superintendent is the appointing authority, and that once the budget is approved by the Board the personnel is up to the Superintendent."

It was this opinion that led the Board to reverse its ruling of firing 12 supervisors over Collins' objections. The supervisors were re-instated.

Last May, however, the Attorney General ruled that the Board has final decision as to employment and salaries of personnel, but warned that both the Board and Superintendent are limited by Merit System regulations.

Collins said he has "plenty more" evidence to submit to the Merit Board to warrant his dismissal of Wommack on charges of insubordination.

Wommack said Collins' charges were inaccurate and incorrect, that even if they were true they didn't show cause for discharge, and that the Superintendent was without power to dismiss him since the Superintendent is not the employing authority.

12 Counties Told To Better Work Camps

State Director of Corrections Robert Warren Tuesday predicted that all county work camps in Georgia will be put into good shape in the near future, after 12 counties were warned to improve their camps or close them.

A Legislative committee notified the 12 camps to make a showing of improving their facilities within the next 10 days. It will make another inspection of these camps at that time.

Warren said that three of the 12 camps already have started building new prison facilities. They are Greene County, Jasper County, and Spalding County. Names of the other nine counties were not made public, since the Legislators wanted to give them an opportunity to make improvements.

It is significant that the Legislators made no complaint of the state-operated prisons, Warren said. Their complaints were aimed at the county-operated camps. These are the last obstacles the penal reform system has to overcome, he commented.

Warren said the Department would try to carry out the other recommendations of the Legislative Committee headed by Rep. Frank Cates of Burke County, as chairman, and Rep. Edwin Kemp of Clayton County, as vice-chairman.

It urged substantial food and clean places to sleep for prisoners; a maximum work day of 10 hours, creation of a separate camp for first offenders or misdemeanor prisoners, and employment of vocational instructors at the Juvenile Honor Camp at Rome.

Warren Tuesday also announced that the new prison for incorrigibles has been put into operation at Buford. This provides segregation of the hardened criminals from others.

He said that work soon will begin on a new Juvenile Honor Camp at Tocoa. The vocational instructors recommended by the Legislators will be employed when that camp opens, Warren added.

Election Called To Replace Sen. Coffin

Gov. Talmadge Tuesday issued a writ of election to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of 12th District State Sen. Charles Coffin of Richland.

The writ instructs Ordinaries of the three counties in the district, Quitman, Stewart and Webster, to call an election.

There is no time limit within which they must act, but John Houston, assistant attorney general assigned to the Governor's office, said Ordinaries usually act within a day or two after receiving such writs.

However, the Ordinaries must advertise the election at least 20 days before it is held.

Umpires Rate Sociologically

For what it's worth: After a limited whirl through the Southern Association, Yankee Scout Spud Chandler has reached the conclusion that old Bobo Newsom, who's pushing 90, would come as near helping a big league club as any pitcher around. . . . A recent sociological survey ranked in order of public respect these four professions: (1) preacher, (2) doctor, (3) banker, and (4) baseball umpire. Repeat, baseball umpire. Wait'll that report gets around among the bluecoats.

It apparently makes no difference to Pete Runnels what league he's in. The Chattanooga graduate has been hitting at a .488 pace for Washington the past week. . . . Radio report: There are two sports announcers in the trade named Tom Malarkey and Joe Hocum. Isn't that grounds for a Congressional investigation? . . . A pitcher named Jesse James won his 20th victory in the Appalachian League last week. Well armed, wouldn't you say?

Bisher

Old major leaguer Les Bell was fired last week after managing the Harrisburg, Pa., club since 1940. Getting so a feller can't expect security any more. . . . Never thought I'd ever see the day a stranger named McDougald would be leading the New York Yankee hitters. . . . No DiMag, no Rizzuto, no Berra, no Henrich, but McDougald. . . . Auburn Lambeth, the slingshot passer from Decatur who was Davidson's only answer to football Goliaths the past four years, goes into the Army at Fort McPherson today. He's a second looie.

Jo Anne Ragsdale, Hapeville newspaper publisher, goes to New York this month to make a TV appearance. It comes of her weekly publication, the "Little League News," which won her local fame this Summer. In addition, she has crashed the Aug. 15 issue of People Today, one of those hurry up mags. She's about to run out of worlds to conquer at age 13.

John (Fiddlin') Carson, the ex-Roosevelt High end at Georgia, has definitely and finally catalogued his athletic life. "I'm a football player the next two years. Golf is just a sideline. After that, I'm a golfer, so I'm gonna play hard at football while I can." . . . There's still hope at Georgia Tech that Jimmy Van Buren will come off the Ivy League standards. There's family talk that the fine tackle won't go to Cornell after all. If he doesn't, it's Tech. . . . Remember the old-fashioned days, when jazz and swing were the trend, and songs like "Truly Fair," "On Top of Old Smoky" et al. were played only at barnyard frolics and hillbilly jamborees?

The Sad End of Mr. Moore

Bill Munday recalls just how tough the elder Dixie (Ewart) Walker was. "Had a third baseman here named Moore, who one day made the mistake of inviting Dixie under the stands for a spell of fisticuffs. Dixie accepted and just about wrecked Moore, who was traded off to Little Rock a little later. Every time Moore came back to Atlanta, the fans would holler, 'Hey, Scrappy, Dixie Walker's in the stands looking for you!' It rattled the poor guy so much he quit baseball." . . . P. S. This befuddled Moore is not to be confused with the Chattanooga Scrappy.

An old big leaguer's explanation for Kirby Higbe's Cracker failure: "He never was a pitcher, just a thrower. When his fast ball left him, he was done against good hitters because he'd never learned how to pitch." . . . They say the Williamsburg tension is so high since Rube McCray abandoned ship that William isn't even speaking to Mary. . . . Ralph H. Kroening, who owns Mainliner, never saw the horse until after he'd won the Hambletonian for him. He left the deal up to his trainer, Guy Crippen.

TWO UMPIRES, PAUL ROY AND AUGIE GUGLIELMO
How's Their Rating in the Southern League?

The Dodgers are by themselves at the top of the National League, and almost as isolated at Ebbets Field. Their attendance is over 100,000 off '50 pace. . . . Social note: Jack McKinney, the large Dixisteel pitcher, and Al Yaylian, the Little Rock tantalizer, were roommates at Williamsport and Little Rock.

Hark! The All-American Lark

Hark! The first All-America, achieved by mental conception, is out and seconded a thing called Sports Album. It goes: McColl, Stanford, and Carey, Mich. State, ends; Weatherall, Oklahoma, and Coleman, Mich. State, tackles; Richter, California, and Ward, Maryland, guards; Moseley, Kentucky, center; Parilli, Kentucky; Janowicz, Ohio State; Reynolds, Nebraska, and Pollard, Army, backs. . . . There'll have to be a substitute for Pollard, who just got unappointed to West Point. . . . The defensive unit refuses to recognize the Herculean qualities of Marion Campbell, the Georgia monster who's as All-American as they get.

When ex-Georgia Tech Guard Ewell Pope went out for the Fort Jackson football team, he found the coach to be Gene Ellenson, Rose Bowl Georgia guard. . . . Waycross Harry Lee is still stacking 'em in the aisles on the Cracker farm. He wonders if the 6,826 who came out for Saturday's merchants' night didn't set a record for Class D. Could be. He's got an automobile show coming up with Friday's game. Next week: "East Lynne." . . . "If Red Heard hasn't heard," says J. N. Ware, of Rome, "the honor system was initiated in the Garden of Eden. Time ain't changed it any."

Golf champion of the College All-Stars is Kayo Dottley, The Ole Miss fullback shot a 37 over the Delafield, Wis., course where they're training. . . . Earl Blaik has made it tough on his old assistant, Herman Hickman. The pros are still cussing about the shaft the Colonel gave them last Fall and Cleveland Browns are aiming at demonstrating just how tough their game is. . . . Would you say that the Philadelphia A's efforts to get out of the second division are in Fain? . . . Selah.

Havalanta Tilts Start Today Amid Pomp

By GENE ASHER
Constitution Sports Writer

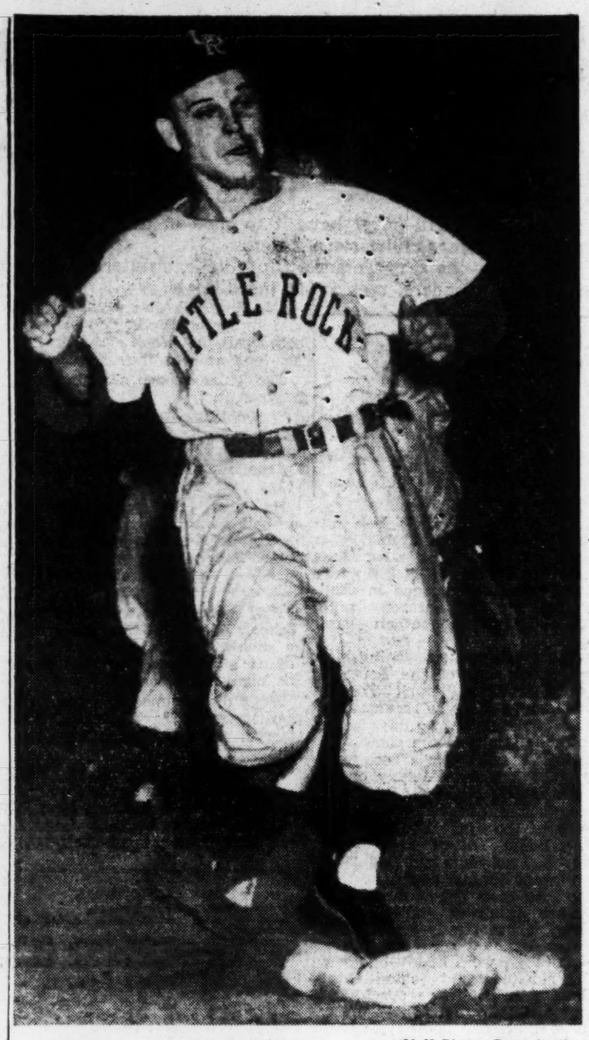

HAVANA Cuba, Aug. 14—Approximately 100 persons, including Mayor Nicolas Castellanos, Big Five club President Frank Trelles, and the 50-piece Havana city band, were on hand to welcome Atlantans Tuesday for the fuorth annual Havalanta Games.

Five hours after arriving aboard the S. S. "Florida," Atlanta's Lewis McClennan strolled over the beautiful Biltmore Yacht Club course for the first time and fired four consecutive birdies. He was the lone Havalanta golfer to break par as he finished the nine-hole practice round with a one-under par 35.

Marshall Mauldin's golfers open the program at 1:30 Wednesday with the first of three 18 hole full handicap matches. Competing for Atlantans will be McClennan, Maulding, Milton Blalock and Muggsy Smith.

The Atlanta baseball team (East Point Motors) meets Havanans in three-game series opener at 6:30. James Towns, who managed East Point to two consecutive Georgia state amateur championships, will start ex-Cracker pitcher Paul Brock.

Among the Atlanta group are Fulton County commissioners Jack Towns, Jim Aldridge, I. Glorier Haley and Tom Camp.

Giants Top Brooklyn At Last, 4-2

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP)—New York's all-but-out-of-it Giants Tuesday night gained their first victory over Brooklyn in seven weeks as freshman George Spencer pitched them to a 4-2 triumph over the Dodgers. A pair of first-inning homers by Don Mueller and Whitey Lockman off starter Erv Palica helped the Giants trim Broklyn's first-place margin to 11½ games.

Getting a starting opportunity because Manager Leo Durocher wished to give his regular starters a longer rest, Spencer turned in a splendid performance.

Triple Play, Homers Win For Bosox

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14—(AP)—A pair of home runs by Ted Williams and the execution of a triple play gave the Boston Red Sox a 7-4 win over the Phildalephia Athletics Tuesday night. Williams' blows were his 24th and 25th of the season and gave him the American League home run leadership over Gus Zernial of the A's who has 24.

Boston came up with the triple killing in Philadelphia's half of the eighth inning. Second Baseman Billy Goodman collared Hank Majeski's liner with the bags loaded and none out.

Goodman stepped on second to force one runner and then threw to Walt Dropo to retire Zernial before the latter had a chance to retrace his steps.

Another Late Trav Upsurge Pops Short Cracker Streak

Leaders Win, 7-4, on Rally For Four Runs in Ninth

By JESSE OUTLAR

Manager Gene Desautels should map a new method of licking Atlanta, for these last-inning comebacks are getting monotonous to the paying customers.

Six times this season, the pennant-bound Travelers have tantalized the Crackers, before landing a knockout wallop in the final frame.

The Travelers employed the same old pattern Tuesday night, spotting Atlanta an early lead and then erupting for four runs in the ninth and a 7-4 decision.

As usual, Little Rock's cousins were co-operative, just as they have been in losing 14 of 17 previous games.

Erratic base-running and ineffective relief hurling were major factors in the abrupt ending of Atlanta's four-game victory string.

The Crackers partially nullified 14 hits off soft-tossing Al Yaylian, with reckless romps on the bases. Al Aucoin was cut down twice, once at home and again at third; Jack Dittmer was nailed at second and Hank Ertman was doubled off first.

Joe Reardon took the blame for the Cracker actions, absorbing his tenth setback in a heart-breaking manner.

The red-head sailed a one-hitter for five frames, had allowed only three blows when he faltered in the ninth. The nightly Cracker pitching parade followed with Don Liddle, Ray Martin and Howard Anderson trudging from the bullpen in that order.

Yaylian, who gained his 12th triumph against four defeats, puffed into the eighth with a 3-2 edge, but the Crackers quickly turned the tide.

Stan Hollmig's 400-foot triple to left in wake of a single by Aucoin and Hank Ertman's whistling double furnished Reardon a 4-3 margin.

Then, Desautel's deciples put on their usual act. Hammerin' Hal Simpson drilled a single, and Johnny Grice, running for him, scored on Ralph Atkins' double to rightcenter.

Manager Dixie Walker flashed the relief sign for Liddle, and Red Cronin greeted the little lefty with a lucky-bounce bunt hit. Atkins moved to third and hurried home as Dave Jaska followed with a one-basser past short.

That gave the Travelers a 5-4 budge and they added two insurance scores on Clem Koshorek's single off Ray Martin.

The Crackers were off to a wayward start in the first. Aucoin doubled with one out, and Dittmer and Hollmig contributed singles, Aucoin was hopelessly trapped at the plate trying to score on Hollmig's single to center.

Walker's men forged to the front in the third, when Reardon, Tanner, Aucoin and Dittmer raked Yaylian for singles worth two runs.

Little Rock closed the gap in the next frame as R. C. Otey walked, raced to third on a hit-and-run infield out, and countered on Simpson's shot to short.

Atkins stroked his third homer in the sixth with one on and two out to put the Travelers on top. But the Crackers thrilled the Ladies' Night crowd of 3,379 with their Hollmig featured rally in the eighth.

Country Brown and Ted Sepkowski were employed as runners for Aucoin and Hollmig in that inning, leading to a bit of comedy in the ninth.

The Cracker bench was exhausted of hitters, and Art Fowler carried his gaudy .143 average to the plate as a pinch-hitter for Anderson.

Art skied to left, but Tanner, who had hit in 11 straight games, walked, and Dittmer punched his third hit through the box to give the home side hope. But Yaylian erased Sepkowski on a game-ending roller to first.

Fowler (4-2) and Walt Nothe (3-11) are booked for Wednesday's double-feature against Dutch McCall (13-7) and Milo Johnson (11-8). First pitch is 7 p. m.

Pensacola Wins, 1-0, Takes Title

By MARION GAINES
Constitution Sports Writer

MARIETTA, Aug. 14—There may have been a happier bunch of youngsters Tuesday but it would be hard to prove by anyone who saw the Pensacola, Fla., nine after it captured the Southeastern Regional Little League crown by defeating North Charleston, S. C., 1-0.

Bill Voss' Floridians won their right to represent the Southeast in the Little World Series at Williamsport, Pa., Aug. 21, by beating the Alabama champions, 7-2, Monday and the South Carolina kingpins Tuesday.

Lanky Lohman Colville held the defending champions to only two hits in a duel with Jimmy Riggens. The later gave up only three safeties.

In the second Riggens gave up a single to Colville, who went to second on a passed ball, advanced to third on Riggens' balk, and won his own game by scoring the only run when Bobby Womack lined a hit to center.

Riggens, however, tied a Marietta Little League Park record set by Marietta's Dudley Barnes when he fanned 15 men in a six-inning game. He struck out every man in the first three frames. Pensacola's Colville whiffed ten.

Colville collected two of the three hits.

In an exhibition, Gastonia, N. C., downed the Georgia champion Marietta squad, 7-4. Troy Black socked a homer for the Tarheels and Neil Martin slammed one for Marietta. Butch Brown had two hits for the Mariettans.

CRACKER DIARY

Fracture Fails To Keep Aucoin Out of Lineup

Little Rock Manager Gene DeSautels said Tuesday Southpaw Bob Cruze has been deferred for 30 days and probably will rejoin the club in Atlanta.

A 10-game winner, Cruze was summoned for Army induction last week, but now he'll be able to complete the season.

Cracker Al Aucoin fractured his left hand on a foul tip off Don Pinciotti's bat while catching Monday night. A real pro, Aucoin didn't even leave the game and was stationed in left field Tuesday night.

Infielder Charlie Williams, who underwent an appendectomy Aug. 7, will work out with the Crackers Wednesday.

Harry Geisel, an American League umpire for 19 years and now ump supervisor for the American Association, was a press box visitor. Geisel is on a scouting tour, seeking Triple-A prospects. —OUTLAR.

South's Hot for Basketball-- That's Trouble, Says Wells

By BILL McGROTHA

Basketball will never have it so good in the Southland as in the "court country" of Indiana and other midwestern states.

Trouble—the way Tulane's Cliff Wells, sweltering in the Georgia Athletic Coaches Association clinic here, sees it—is the climate.

"Up there it gets cold early," said Indianian Wells, "down here basketball just won't stand up for the long seasons they have."

The Tulane coach admitted improvement.

"I would say basketball in the South is twice as good as it was six years ago, when I came to Tulane," opined the veteran of 35 years' coaching.

He cited new gyms cropping up, better interest, and noted that he did not have to rely on imported students as much as he once did for good basketball at Tulane.

"Of course, we, and other schools in the SEC, still get a number of players from Indiana and those parts but not as many as before."

Wells diagrammed and lectured two hours Friday morning for Georgia coaches attending the clinic.

In the afternoon, North and South All-Star squads ran through demonstrations at the Tech gym.

Forwards — Doug Foster and Emory Clements, both of Irwinville; center — Head Parrish, Cook County High of Adel; guards—John Hughes and Tom Mixon, both of Lanier High of Macon.

North Coach C. W. Bradley, of Murray County High at Chatsworth indicated that he would go with this five:

Forwards — Bobby Moore, Brown High of Atlanta; James Denny, Canton; center — Dan Fausett, Brown; guards—Ferrell Sparks, Canton; Ronald Wilson, Russell High, of Atlanta.

The Rebel squad took on more of an Irwinville hue when Childs sent out a rush call to his O'Neal Register to replace Stanley Allen, of Valdosta, who failed to show. Register is a fast and a sure set shot.

Childs, whose apt nickname is "Country," has been, to coin a phrase, the life of the party.

He joked about his system at Irwinville, the "seven-man zone" and declared that it was unbeatable.

Childs, who will coach at Blackshear next season, laughingly admitted that Canton's D. T. Smith had challenged Irwinville for his state A champions in mid-season, offering a fancy financial guarantee. The Farmers declined, contending that Canton also used the "seven-man zone" on its home court and upped the guarantee by $50 if Canton would come to Irwinville. They did not get together.

Anderson, Raybon Out Of Star Tilt

A CLINICAL VIEW: Bob Anderson, All-Star end from Lanier high, suffered a broken leg while making a tackle as Chick Shiver's South team scrimmaged in preparation for the Saturday night GACA All-Star football game here.

The break was a stunning blow to the chances of the South as Calvin Raybon, crack Dawson flankman, suffered a recurrent injury to an ankle two days before and also is out of the game.

Buck Andel, Georgia Tech trainer, who lectured Tuesday on the training arts at the GACA Clinic, says that injuries being nursed by some of the other boys like Dan Theodocion, Allen Lee, James Morris, Fred Nutt and Red Whitten are of a minor nature and will not keep them out of the game.

Spec Landrum and Joe Connally, whose Grady and Decatur teams open the season against each other, were buddy-buddy on the sidelines and joined Oliver Hunnicutt, LaGrange coach, in a mutual admiration society for the running of West Point flash Larry Ruffin and Larry Morris, who again were offensive stars in the North skirmish.

Leon Cunningham, ex-Smith High center who was a sensation defensively at Custer Military Academy last fall, is now at South Carolina, and Coach Rex Enright has switched the 190 pounder to end. He likes his new position.

Tulane's Cliff Wells chided Tech's Whack Hyder and Auburn's Joel Eaves for taking such abundant notes on his basketball lectures . . . Wells grinned upon meeting old Tech foe Jim Nolan.

Tomboys Triumph

The Tomboys downed Lorelei Ladies, 3-2, Tuesday night at Southeast Piedmont in the second of a three-game series. Joey Frick struck out six for the winners. The two teams clash again Wednesday night.

St. Claire Homer Aids Braves' Win

BOSTON, Aug. 14—(AP)—Home runs by Ebba St. Claire and Sam Jethroe aided young Chet Nichols in his seventh victory of the season Tuesday night for the Boston Braves who downed the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-2. St. Claire's homer, his first of the year, was slugged in tne second and Jethroe walloped his 14th of the season with one on in the third.

The Phils were able to score but once in both the fourth and fifth innings as the young southpaw held them at bay the rest of the route.

Leo's Not Such A Lion in Glare Of Limelight

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 14—(AP)—Leo Patrick Kiely Jr., Boston Red Sox southpaw pitcher, turned bashful Tuesday as he underwent his pre-induction physical at the Army induction center.

While flashbulbs popped, Kiely said, "Gosh, I hope Steve O'Neill (Red Sox manager) doesn't think all this publicity was my idea." The slim, tall 21-year-old pitcher seemed somewhat dismayed at questions of newsmen.

Kiely, who has a three won and two lost record since he was called up from Louisville in the American Association on June 17, said he received his notice from the Hoboken, N. J., draft board about a week ago.

Campbell Under Knife

Marion Campbell, Georgia's "Swamp Fox" line great from Chester, S. C., will undergo a knee operation at Crawford Long Hospital Wednesday on which may hinge the Bulldogs' chances for success on the gridiron this Fall.

Campbell, 20-year-old All-America prospect, has a calcium deposit in the joint. Dr. Joe Boland will perform the operation at 2 p. m.

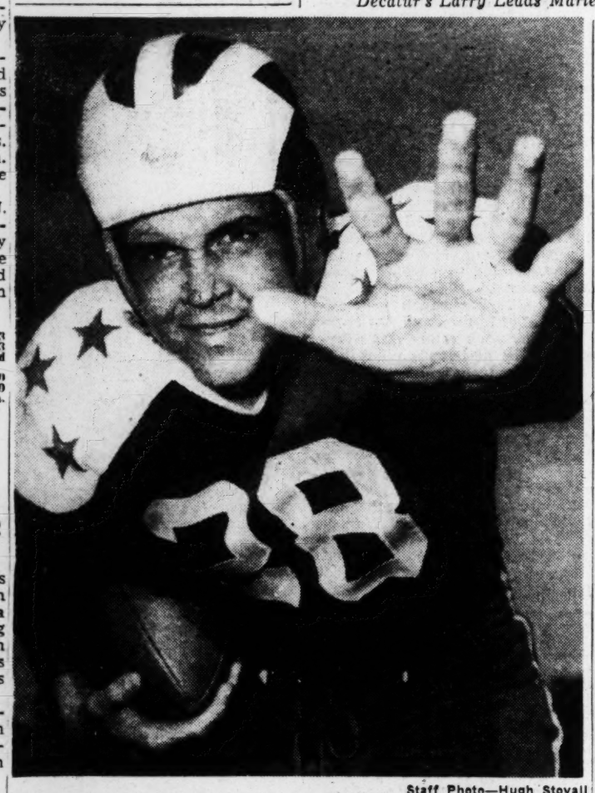

Campbell said Dr. Boland told him he might miss Georgia's opening game with George Washington University Sept. 22 and probably would have difficulty rounding into shape for the season.

"I guess it really happened to me . . . or it really began . . . in the LSU game last year," Campbell said Tuesday night at the hospital. "I wrenched the knee then and had a little trouble with it the rest of the year. But I thought it was all right this Summer. One night, though, at the Fort Benning ROTC school, we made an eight-mile forced march and I guess I strained it then. Since then I haven't been able to put much weight on it."

At 230 pounds, Campbell may be the finest tackle in University history. At Chester, he was an All-America prepper. He is considered one of Dixie's best line bets for "all" rankings this Fall.

106-Pound Catfish

YANKTON, S. D., Aug. 14—(AP) Farmer Tom Brennan came in with a 106-pound blue catfish Tuesday and said it fought so hard he had to shoot it. The biggest fish previously caught around here was a 96-pound 'cat, pulled from the James River last spring by Roy Groves.

SHIVER'S CASE FOR SOUTH

Rebels Yell Defiance As All-Star Tiff Nears

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

"Save Your Confederate Money, Boys; the South Will Rise Again." The South All-Star football team lads from the flatlands have adopted that hillbilly tune for their theme song as they swelter their way into condition for the GACA All-Star game at Grant Field Saturday night.

"The North may be favored to win the game, but that gives us the best slogan at least," grins Coach Chick Shiver through the perspiration as he watches his huskies knock heads in scrimmage at Rose Bowl Field.

"Everyone will have to admit that they have some good horses over there," he quips, pointing to the front end of the field where Coach J. E. DeVaughn Tuesday was letting his Yankees butt skulls for the second straight day, also. "We believe we have a mighty good ball club on this end, too, though so don't sell us short."

"Calvin Raybon, of Dawson, has an injured leg that will keep him out of the game, and Lanier's Bob Anderson broke a leg in scrimmage Monday. That leaves us without perhaps our best two ends, and the North probably has the bulge on us at tackle. But outside of those two positions, I believe we can hold our own or better."

Shiver and aides Dickie Butler and Bill Bailey wouldn't trade their pair of 210-pound guards—Lanier's Ralph Torrance and Savannah's Johnny Campbell—for any other two they might get. However, they have only one other guard on hand, Jordan's Frank Borders.

Ramon Grimsley, Tifton's six-seven, 265-pound center, is a boy "they will at least have to run around; he's pretty rugged," as Shiver puts it.

Tifton's Johnny Lipsey, Glynn Academy's Linwood Roberts and Lanier's Richard (Red) Whitten are three running backs that Chick believes are strictly Grade-A and will cause a lot of grief come Saturday night. Lanier's Buddy Caldwell is of proven dependability and awfully "good in the rough spots."

T Quarterbacks Tom Stuart and Jimmy Peerson, of Lanier and Glynn, respectively, are excellent ball handlers, good passers and "we believe they are every bit as good as the North has to offer," insists Shiver.

"Johnny Campbell will hold his own as a punter with anything they can throw at us, too," he adds.

Albany's Pete Cox is a back who may prove to be a real trouble-maker, but South coaches haven't seen enough of him to be sure. Louisville's Buddy Rivers has that "I can go" look but is struggling with the T formation for the first time.

John Perkins, Claxton back, and Neil Porter, Savannah tackle, are being counted upon for heavy duty also, but both arrived three days late and are not yet in as good condition as the others.

The North may be favored by 14 points, but somehow Chick Shiver doesn't sound like a man being led to the gallows and his boys don't act like a condemned team should. "Save Your Confederate Money, Boys; The South May . . . "

HALF FAVORITES WIN

The first 50 nights of racing at Roosevelt Raceway showed that 42.4 percent of the favorites chalked up victories.

Hart-Fry Combine Steps Toward National Title

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 14—(AP)—Doris Hart, of Coral Gables, Fla., and Shirley Fry, of Akron, Ohio, top favorites in the women's division, launched their bids for national doubles tennis titles by overwhelming Carolyn Liguori, of Brooklyn, and Diana McIlyaine, of New York, 6-0, 6-0, in a second-round match Tuesday at Longwood.

Second-seeded Mrs. Pat Todd of LaJolla, Calif., and Nancy Chaffee of Ventura, Calif., kept pace with their higher-ranked rivals by eliminating British Wightman Cup teammates, Mrs. Jean Walker-Smith and Helen Fletcher, 6-3, 6-4.

In a second-rounder between unseeded teams, Betty Rosenquest of South Orange, N. J., and Maureen Connolly, 16-year-old San Diego, Calif., star, eliminated Edith Copeland of Gates Mills, Ohio, and Barbara Wood from nearby Wellesley, 6-0, 6-2.

Budge Patty of Los Angeles, and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, the men's second seedings, had an easy second round assignment putting out Alan Herrington of Los Angeles, and John Sisson of San Moreno, Calif., 6-2, 6-1, 6-1. The California tandem also is entered in the veterans' doubles.

SOUTHERN ROUNDUP

Vols Drop Pelicans, Push Toward 'Big 4'

By BILL FERGUSON
United Press Sports Writer

Nashville seems to have disappointed the experts who picked it to snare the 1951 pennant in the Southern Association, but the fifth-place Vols plan to be back in the first division by whistle-time.

The Vols, 15½ games from league-leading Little Rock, pulled within two games of the preferred upper half Tuesday night as they dropped New Orleans, 8-4.

The victory brought them one-half game closer to the fourth-place Memphis Chicks, idle along with Birmingham.

Babe Barna led the Vol attack on two Mobile pitchers. He banged out two homers for three tallies. Vol Ted Lotz also added a circuit smash.

The Chattanooga Lookouts kept the sliding Mobile Bears on the skids with a 6-5 surprise.

The third-place Bears pulled off to a 4-to-0 lead through the first six innings but Chattanooga, sparked by a three-run homer by Hal Keller, ignited for four runs in the seventh and then added two more in the eighth for the victory.

SECOND COLLISION OF EVERS AND HEGAN

Indians Win in 10th, 6-5, for 12th Consecutive Victory

Yanks Defeat Senators On Three Runs in Ninth

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(AP)—The New York Yankees scored three runs with two out in the ninth inning to defeat Washington, 6-3, Tuesday night before a crowd of 19,680. Bob Kuzava, last of three New York pitchers, singled across the tie-breaking run in the ninth for his ninth victory.

The win kept the Yanks two and a half games behind first-place Cleveland. The Indians beat Detroit, 6-5, in an afternoon game at Cleveland.

Washington, held to three hits by Tom Morgan and Vic Raschi in the first seven innings, nicked Raschi and Kuzava for four singles and two runs to tie the score at 3-3 in the eighth.

Yogi Berra opened the ninth with a single off Mickey Harris, who replaced Bob Porterfield, and Gil McDougald sacrificed. Johnny Mize popped up and Hank Bauer was passed. Kuzava singled to right and Berra scored a disputed run, with the Senators arguing vigorously that Catcher Mike Guerra had tagged Berra out.

North Fulton Signs Maupin

The 1951 North Fulton High coaching staff has been completed with the signing of Charlie Maupin, athletic director at McHenry High in Rome until its recent consolidation, to coach B team football, basketball and baseball.

North Fulton Principal Warren T. Jackson, in making the announcement, said that Fred Fussell will move up into the varsity line coaching post vacated by Wayman Creel, now Northside coach. Frank Jernigan will again coach the backs under head mentor Jack Griffin.

Maupin was a star for the 1937 Elizabethton High eleven that won the Tennessee state football crown, later played for University of Georgia's point-a-minute frosh team of 1938. He was in the Army 1941-1945 and played football for the Camp Croft Crusaders before seeing service in the European Theater.

He returned to Georgia and received his degree in 1947, then took over the coaching reins at McHenry. He will report here Aug. 18.

Five Events Set At Peach Bowl

Roscoe Thompson, with two second places last week, continues to lead money winners in the stock car races at the Peach Bowl Speedway. He will be out to increase his total Wednesday night, but faces stern competition from several jockeys.

Among those threatening Thompson's lead are Jack Smith, Gober Sosebee, last week's winner, Billy Carden and Stan Parnell.

In adition to the veteran drivers, the rapidly-growing amateur race will be featured. The five-card program starts at 8:30 p. m.

Gordon Clay Wins Medal In City Golf

His Late 68 Ousts Gaillard

By BERT PRATHER

Gordon Clay, Capital City Country Club ace, who was runner-up for the City amateur title two years ago, assured himself of another piece of silver when he grabbed the qualifying medal in the 1951 tournament Tuesday at Meadowbrooks Country Club.

Gordon toured the par 35-36-71 course in 35-33-68 to displace last year's runner-up, Gene (Goose) Gaillard of Druid Hills as qualifying leader. Gene had finished an hour earlier with a one under 70 and most railbirds figured the Goose had the medal in the bag.

Par stood firm against the other eighty-five starters. Chub Kile an ex-city junior champ Gene Hay, both of North Fulton, were next low placers with one over 72s.

Lester Kelly, winner of the City junior crown last week, ran into trouble and took a 77. For this effort he earned the right to meet Clay in one of Wednesday's standout matches.

Bob Sulzer, defending champion from Capital City, was exempt from qualifying, but took a warm up round and came in with a 72. He plays Cliff Ansley in the first round.

O. A. Dunlap, who shot an 80, was drawn into the championship flight to complete the bracket of 32. Normally it takes a 78 or 76 to make the championship grade.

North Fulton's team, composed of Gene Hay, (72), Kelly (77), Charlie Ozmer (75) and Tommy Mathews (76), dethroned Druid Hills as team champions with a combined score of 300. Capital City's quartet of Gordon Clay, Jim Clay, Carling Dinkler, Jr. and Roby Robinson finished second with 304.

All divisions will play one round of match play Wednesday with the fifth flighters leading off at 9 a. m.

Qualifying scores and first-round pairings for championship flight: 11:35 A. M.—Bob Sulzer vs. Cliff Ansley (77). 11:40—Tommy Wulff (75) vs. Coney Willingham (78). 11:45—Chub Kile (72) vs. Jim Clay (77). 11:50—Tommy Mathews (76) vs. Pierce Miller (79). 11:55—Gene Gaillard (70) vs. Abe Massar (77). 12 noon—Bill Broker (75) vs. Dick Edwards (79). 12:05—Richard Waters (74) vs. Forrest Fowler, Jr., (78). 12:10—Ralph Barnes (76) vs. J. GRANDSTANDERS TO MANAGE BROWNS FOR ONE NIGHT-ONLY

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14—(AP)—Bill Veeck, new owner of the Browns, came up Tuesday with another innovation—grandstand managers will run the club Aug. 24.

Veeck plans it this way:

Fans will fill out application forms, giving their choice for the starting lineups. The club will then mail a pass to those who apply entitling them to seats in a special section behind the Browns' dugout.

When situations come up during the game with the Philadelphia Athetics, cards will be held up to fit the situation—"Should he hit and run? Should he sacrifice? Should the man on first steal? Should we replace this pitcher?" And so on.

Majority decision will rule.

Then some fans may want to be coaches. They must write a letter telling why they want the job. Two will be selected, signed to a contract for one night and placed at first and third base.

College Stars Hold Arc Drill

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—(AP)—The College All-Stars drilled for 90 minutes Tuesday night in Soldier Field where Friday night they will play the Cleveland Browns, professional champions, in the 18th annual game.

The brief appearance under the floodlights climaxed the collegians visit to Chicago. At noon they were luncheon guests of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Tuesday night they returned to their training base at Delafield, Wis., to remain until Friday morning.

Industrial Future Hinted For Hydrogen Bomb Plant

Official Says Project Can Cook Anything for Military or Nation

By RALPH McGILL
Editor, The Atlanta Constitution

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Aug. 14—An industrial future for the huge H-bomb plant now under construction on the Savannah River near Augusta and Aiken, S. C., which is in reality the new type atomic pile ore furnace, was one of the conclusions drawn from a talk here at the Oak Ridge seminar by Donald H. Louthridge, of the Atomic Energy Commission.

While security measures prevent any real disclosures and while the primary purpose of the Savannah River plant is a military one the plant was described here as "a very fine stove on which we can cook anything the military or the nation need."

Louthridge released figures which reveal that compared with coal the weight of fissionable materials for equal energy content is a factor of about 3,000,000 in favor of the fissionable material. It is a practically weightless fuel and, said Louthridge, would have the same cost any place in the world in the absence of tariff barriers or other artificial price controls. He further said that the relative cost of power generated by ordinary fuel and atomic fuel would be enormously in favor of the latter once an adequate supply of fissionable material was assured.

LOW COST EMPHASIZED

"Let us assume," said Louthridge, "that there is an assured supply of fissionable substance in comparing this cost. For example with uranium at a 1949 price of $50 per pound its cost per killowatt hour of electricity would be only .02 mills. If the price of uranium should increase tenfold to $500 per pound the cost per killowatt hour would be only .2 mills and at $2,000 a pound uranium would be no more costly in terms of its energy content than coal at about $1.60 a ton with equal thermal efficiency.

"This is indeed an amazing fuel which could absorb enormous increases in the cost of prying it from the earth and refining it and still remain cheaper than the cheapest fuel."

Louthridge also expressed the hope that American industry and business may find from studies now going on that they can invest their money in atomic power development. They could, he said, combine production and power design and it would be perfectly feasible to sell to the Government fissionable material produced as a by-product from their power reactors. At the present time, he said, eight large industrial enterprises working in teams of two have indicated their interest in the work. These teams are Dow Chemical Co. and Detroit Edison Co. in Michigan, the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. and the Bechtel Corp., both in San Francisco, the Monsanto Chemical Co. and Union Electric, both of St. Louis, the Commonwealth Edison Co. and Public Service Co. of Northern Illinois, both of Chicago.

ISOTOPE PRODUCTION

In addition, he said, the Bendix Corporation is studying possibilities of the company constructing home reactors for the purpose of producing difficult isotopes which are becoming more and more in demand for medical and industrial uses of great diversity.

He also revealed that the present Atomic Energy Commission program consists of the construction of four new-type reactors. Included in these is a ship propulsion reactor for submarine propulsion. This work is a going project and is under construction. Also under construction is a ship propulsion reactor designed for larger vessels.

Dr. Louthridge said that the Savannah River plant was one which he could not discuss but that it was a reactor plant in a new neutron field. It will produce large amounts of fissionable material and while it may not be discussed it is obvious that the plant will fit well into the industrial future which Mr. Louthridge sees as unlimited once the full power of American industry is linked with it in peacetime development.

House Okays $118 Million for Georgia Military Projects

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(AP)—A dozen defense installations in Georgia are listed for about $118,000,000 in new construction and improvements under the $5,768,720,000 military construction bill approved Tuesday by the House, while seven South Carolina spots are down for about $66,000,000.

Heaviest program in either state is at Fort Benning, outside Columbus, Ga., where $28,763,040 is to be spent for troop housing, a hospital, bridge, training facilities and utilities for this huge infantry school.

The Charleston airfield at Charleston, S. C., is close behind with $28,444,000 alloted for an extensive overhauling including runways, lighting, navagational aids, troop, family and medical housing and storage and shops.

Also in the higher brackets is Hunter Air Force Base at Savannah, Ga., where $24,451,000 is to be spent on a program calling for extensive construction of airfield pavements, buildings and operational facilities.

Other Georgia projects:

Camp Gordon, Augusta, $5,782,000 for troop housing and training facilities and utilities; Camp Stewart, Savannah, $3,712,500 for troop supporting facilities and utilities; Augusta Arsenal, $50,000 for operational facilities and utilities; Atlanta General Supply Depot, $1,260,000 for storage and utilities; Naval Air Facility at Glynco, $9,690,000, advanced combat information center school and added aviation facilities; Marine Corps Supply Depot, Albany, $5,187,200 for depot facilities; Lawson Air Force Base, Columbus, $9,058,000 for general expansion including airfield pavement, fuel cilities and shops; Turner Air storage and dispensing, navigational aids and lighting, troop Force Base, Albany, $7,308,000 for a program similar to that at Lawson; Moody Air Force Base, Valdista, $1,951,000 for similar program; Robins Air Force Base, Macon, $20,683,000 for a similar program.

Next to the Charleston airfield, largest spending in South Carolina was planned for Shaw Air Force Base at Sumter where $18,922,000 was earmarked for pavements, fuel storage and dispensing, communications, lighting operational and maintenance facilities and utilities.

The huge authorization, more than half of it for the Air Force and including secret projects abroad to put U. S. bombers in range of Russia was sent to the Senate on a 352 to 5 roll call. The actual money must come in later appropriations and the services are asking $4,600,000,000 to get the job going.

Before final passage the House rejected, by voice vote, a move to strike out a $19,019,000 item for expansion of the Grandview, Mo., Air Base in President Truman's home county.

Rep. Gross, (Rep. Iowa), contending the project was "extravagance" had held up action on the whole measure for several days until he could get a vote on his amendment. He contended the Air Force could use a nearby field at Sedalia, Mo., which was down for a $22,000,000 expansion program of its own.

Morgenthau Pictured as Tool of Reds

Unconscious Aid Alleged by Bentley

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(INS)—Elizabeth Bentley told Tuesday of Communist pressure in the White House and the cabinet and testified that former treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr., was an "unconscious" tool of the Reds.

Miss Bentley

The confessed ex-Communist spy courier asserted that the late Asst. Treasury Secretary Harry Dexter White "used" Morgenthau to further the Red cause and that former White House aide Lauchlin Currie "could pull strings" for Soviet agents.

Miss Bentley also told the Senate internal security committee:

1. That John Paton Davis, state department policy planner recently cleared in a departmental loyalty check, was "quite sympathetic" to the Communist cause.

2. That Alger Hiss, now imprisoned for falsely denying that he gave U. S. secrets to the Reds, was described as the head of the Soviet espionage network as "one of ours."

3. That the Institute of Pacific Relations was described by the late Soviet spymaster Jacob Golos as being "as red as the roses." But she said Golos called the IPR "far too open and far too bungling" and warned Communist operatives not to "touch it with a ten-foot pole."

Miss Bentley said White "pushed hard" on Morgenthau to go ahead with a plan for stripping Germany of industrial power and that White acted "on our instructions."

Miss Bentley was asked if she knew that White was a Communist party member. She replied: "He was as good as one."

White died of a heart attack several years ago after testifying in a congressional investigation of the Red network in the U. S. government.

Asked whether Morgenthau was used by Communist agents, Miss Bentley said: "I am afraid so." But she added that "certainly Morgenthau did not fall in with the Communist cause."

Senators Vote 4-Cent Rate For Letters

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(AP)—A rise from three to four cents in the postal rate on letters was voted by the Senate Post Office Committee Tuesday. It is part of a bill generally increasing postal rates to bring in $363,000,000 more a year in revenue.

Air mail letters would go from six to eight cents. Parcel post (fourth class) charges also would increase.

At the same time the committee approved a bill to increase salaries of postal workers by between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000.

The rate rise bill, previously approved on July 19, was amended to include an increase in rates on fourth class matter. This, in effect, restores to Congress the rate making authority on fourth class mail—taking it away from the Postmaster General and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The committee also approved, as a separate measure, a bill to limit the size and weight of parcel post packages. It was generally conceded this might result in a loss of revenue to the post office department by diversion of larger packages to express handling, although no estimate of the amount has been made.

Blazing Sun Scorches Texas As Relief Clouds Disappear

DALLAS, Aug. 14—(AP)—The killer Texas heat wave gained new strength Tuesday. Raincloud which brought some relief in recent days disappeared and the blazing sun seared the earth.

As the state's heat death toll rose to 28, ranchers began herding cattle off bone-dry ranges. Livestock markets reported record numbers of animals marketed.

The latest death was that of Lamar Jones, 30-year-old Negro sawmill worker at Mauriceville, 10 miles north of the coastal city of Orange. He was overcome and died almost instantly while returning to his machine after getting a drink of water.

The death toll does not include drownings, which numbered six Monday. Many citizens sought relief by swimming in pools, lakes and streams.

Cattle and calves flooded the San Antonio livestock market in record numbers. Many were being taken from dry ranges and being sold for shipment to green pastures in other states, or for fattening in the Midwest.

Glen Ellison, market news specialist, said 14,011 cattle and 13,023 calves have been marketed at San Antonio so far in August, against 4,553 cattle and 8,153 calves for the similar 1950 period. At Fort Worth, principal market for north and west Texas ranges, marketings were much heavier than usual. But spotted rains have helped green up some north and west Texas ranges.

Temperatures Tuesday vaulted to 100 at Fort Worth and Mineral Wells. Corsicana in central Texas reported 109 for the high reading Monday. Bridgeport and Henrietta, both in north Texas, had 108 and 106, respectively.

MARY HAWORTH

Girl, 14, Wrangles With Mother; Wonders How To Get Along

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl, 14, in need of help, for my sake, and for the sake of my family, particularly my mother.

Recently Mom and I haven't been getting along very well. We yell at each other; I must admit I do most of it. We are learning to hate each other. A few weeks ago my elder sister, a registered nurse, who is married and has two small children, started paying me to give her children daytime care, while she and her husband work. This causes arguments too.

Mother disputes everything I do for the children; and says I don't practice cleanliness. Also she says I don't care how hard she works to keep the place looking well; and that I don't appreciate anything my parents do for me, and am not nice to them unless they are giving me things and doing me favors. Somehow, when they give me things, I can't say "Thanks"—it just chokes up in me.

Mother says I wouldn't care if she died tomorrow, and that she will be very glad when I am old enough to support myself and live apart from her. As she has always taught me that children shouldn't grieve over death, I don't know how I would feel if she died; but I must say that I look forward eagerly to being independent. I have a boy friend, Tommy, who lives nearby. I care a lot for him. I would do anything in the world for him, while my feelings for my mother are different. Next to Tommy I think most of myself; and I know this is very selfish.

Please tell me how to overcome my selfishness; and how to have more respect and affection for my family, and my mother especially. C. B.

DEAR C. B.: Someone has said that hate is only frustrated love. I think this is probably true of your hate-feelings toward your mother. Each of you, longing for sympathy and affirmation in the relationship, is beginning to feel outraged by the barrier of anger that is growing between you. This barrier is due to lack of understanding, not lack of basic devotional concern for one another.

Resistance to the mother's views, or her "driving," is a natural part of the pattern of growth in children's lives. It is noticeable as they enter the teens, when the adolescent tendency to proclaim individual preference may bog down into surly obstinacy if it encounters consistently sharp contradiction. No doubt you are having trouble along this line, due to the fact that your mother, fretted by the fatigue, anxiety and worry that are common to hard-working parents, aims a great deal of fault finding at you.

As I see the difficulty, both you and your mother are contributing to it; and the question is not so much how to overcome your selfishness, as how to give more comfort to your mother, and thus relax her sharpness. You will find it helpful to bring a positive, rather than a discouraged attitude to the problem. Emotions of self-reproach and self-condemnation are handicaps in any endeavor; and the fact that you are asking help in healing the breach shows that your heart is in the right place, even though your mind is confused.

For advice: It is well known that "A soft answer turneth away wrath." Also it is a psychological truism that "Emotion follows action." As Shakespeare said, "Assume a virtue if you have it not . . . for use almost can change the stamp of nature"—meaning that the practice of goodness breeds feelings in kind. So, when your mother rages at you, snaps out orders, criticism, etc., either answer softly or practice silence. Not a sullen silence, of course; nor a remote unhearing brand of silence, but a friendly silence that seems to say, "Let's not quarrel." This is the attitude of "turning the other cheek," that Jesus prescribed as the antidote to hostility.

For the rest, it is probable that your mother's suggestions about child care are worth heeding; and as you are "baby-sitting" in her home, she has a right to emphasize her standards there. So try diligently to please her. About Tommy: you've no reason to feel conscience stricken because he rates first in your affections, and yourself second. This means merely that your emotions are taking the healthy direction that nature intends. M. H.

HOT-HEADED TREATMENT FOR DRY HAIR

Right Hair Care Puts Bounce In Summer-Wilted Curls

By SCARLETT BLANTON

Got the late Summer blues, after looking at your dry, sun-bleached hair? All that water skiing and swimming are taking their toll on your so-called crowning glory, and you are just now lamenting the ravages of Summer.

Take heart, fair lady. The experts hand out a little advice. They know you'll soon be wanting a new Fall permanent, as well as a new Fall chapeau, and your hair simply MUST be in good condition for both.

Oil treatments are most important to restore the natural oils to your hair, after an outdoor Summer of swimming, boating, and wind. For the girl who does her own hair, Mr. Adolphe suggests she buy prepared oils from a beauty shop.

When you use a specially prepared oil, you are using one which is water-soluble. After the oil treatment wrap steamy towels around your head for 20 minutes. Then, advises Mr. Adolphe, give yourself a regular shampoo, and finally an application of ointment to re-lubricate your locks. Three or four of these treatments, once a week, should get your curls back in tip-top shape for your Fall permanent.

Olive oil and castor oil, says Mr. Adolphe, are both wonderful for your hair. But, he adds, they're almost impossible to get out because they're not water-soluble. So after treatment with either of these two, you must use a strong alkali soap which immediately undoes all the good the oil treatment did.

By way of further advice, have your hair trimmed before the new "do." Summer elements have a way of doing terrible things to it, many of which can be improved by a little judicious cutting.

If you're troubled by sun-streaking, you can tint the offending locks with a shampoo tint until the bleach grows out. And you girls with extremely dry hair, avoid detergent shampoos, which have a high alkali content . . . it only tends to dry your hair out more. Instead, buy shampoos with lanolin, and for further stimulation, give your hair 100 brush strokes every night.

Former Roommate Of Bride To Be Matron Of Honor at Wedding

By ANNIE LOU HARDY

Because Jane Paty could not decide between her two sisters, she chose her best friend and college roommate, Mrs. Rufus Partlow, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., to be her matron of honor when she becomes the bride of Lt. Vann Waldrop, of Tuscaloosa, Friday, Aug. 31.

However, her sisters, Mrs. John Reynolds (the former Martha Anne Paty) and Mrs. Malcolm Bargeron (Mary Paty), both of Birmingham, will be in the wedding party as bridesmaids.

Miss Jane Paty

Jane will be married in the wedding dress worn by her sister, Mrs. Bargeron, when she became a bride about this time last year. A portrait gown of white mousseline de soie, it is elaborately embroidered in dainty rosebuds. With it Jane will wear a shoulder-length veil of illusion, being the only one of the three sisters to wear a veil at her marriage.

The ceremony has been set for 5:30 o'clock at Glenn Memorial Chapel, with Dr. W. Aiken Smart, a lifelong friend of the Paty family, reading the service. Afterwards Jane's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond R. Paty, will entertain at an informal reception at their home on Rainbow Drive for the wedding party, members of the two families, and a few close friends.

Dr. Paty will give his daughter in marriage, and Dr. Sam Waldrop will be his brother's best man. Groomsmen will include Charles McCanless of Canton, and George Cooper of Tuscaloosa.

At present Jane is in Birmingham where she is the guest of her sisters, following a visit to Mrs. Partlow, the former Theresa Ford, in Tuscaloosa, where she and her fiance were central figures at a dinner party given by the Partlows.

As yet the bridal couple have no idea where their first home will be. A lieutenant in the Air Force Reserve, Lt. Waldrop expects to receive orders about Sept. 1 to report for flight training.

THE COUNTRY HOME of Mrs. Robert E. Latta near Conyers will be the scene of a luncheon Wednesday when Mrs. Latta entertains board members of the Oglethorpe Chapter, Daughters of the American Colonists, with Mrs. Edward W. Klein, regent, as honor guest.

Cheating Is Up to Parents

The evils of cheating at West Point seem to have shocked practically no one in this nation. Between those who consider cheating on a college exam picayune compared to the gold-plated graft that goes on in high governmental circles, there are those who consider cheating on a college exam as natural as eating when you're hungry. We have talked to many grown-ups who say quite frankly, "Sure we cheated. Everybody did." And then they will go on to expound humorously on the merits of the various ways of getting by.

"We had the honor system at Alabama, all right," one Old Grad told us. "The faculty had the honor and we had the system."

"The boys at West Point used the same system that has been operating at Georgia for years," a friend explained. "They simply handed down the examination questions the professors were too stupid to change. We handed 'em down, too . . . for a price. You had to pay to get 'em."

Then the Georgia graduate, one of the most upright and honorable men we know, explained in detail the various systems for getting by. The only professor he knew who could beat the system was a gentleman who devised four sets of examination questions and distributed them in the room so no matter where you sat nobody in your immediate vicinity had the same examinations you were taking. The professor's theory was that students who were good enough to memorize four sets of questions and answers knew enough about the course to pass anyhow.

"He had us licked . . . for about three minutes," our friend reported. "We finally figured out a way to get around even four exams though. Everybody studied for only one exam each and then when he got to class we got the exam we studied for no matter who the professor gave it to. If you couldn't pass a piece of paper to a pal without getting caught you were pretty sloppy."

A letter from a veteran editor suggests that the honor system works only when properly policed. He put it this way: "The profs at Tech say it work just fairly well under close supervision by the faculty provided you can space the boys three chairs apart."

To us what happened at West Point is not nearly so alarming as the national attitude toward it. To condone cheating in any form is bad enough but to take it for granted, to treat it with humor and affection seems actually dangerous. If we grownups aren't shocked about it there'll never be an end to it. Little children now in grammar school will grow up looking for the easy way to slide by, the clever way of beating tests—not just in college but in life.

Everybody now grown remembers instances of flagrant cheating in school and maybe there'll never be a time when this isn't so. At least there'll never be such a time unless parents tackle it now. Whatever happened to the old-fashioned notion that you studied to pass an exam and if you didn't know enough you flunked?

Actually it's pretty silly to make an example of this year's crop of West Pointers when they are merely falling in the national pattern. But we'd better get busy and make examples—decent examples—out of the crop of collegians coming up.

Washington Agog Over Royal Visit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14. (U.P.)—Society bigwigs already have started angling discreetly already for a seat at what promises to be the biggest social event of the Washington season—the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The British royal couple will not arrive here until Oct. 24 but the feverish rush to snag invitations to affairs in their honor already is under way. American diplomatic officials and the British embassy have been receiving cautious inquiries.

But officials in charge of the affair will try to keep the couple's plans secret at least until September.

Washington still measures all crowds by the number of persons who welcomed the king and queen of Great Britain when they visited America in 1939. Never was there such a social furore in the capital.

Because of the social tug-of-war that marked the visit of the king and queen 13 years ago, Embassy and State Department planners are proceeding with extra caution. A suggested Washington schedule has been sent to the princess for her approval.

Elizabeth and Philip will arrive by plane from Canada. President and Mrs. Truman—and particularly daughter Margaret, who recently met the princess in London—probably will head the welcoming party at National airport.

There will be no formal parade as far as marching bands and military units are concerned. The royal couple probably will join the presidential family in a leisurely motorcade back to Blair House, where Elizabeth and Philip will be house guests during their visit.

'Customer's Woman' Helps Invest Your Capital

By MARTHA SMITH

If you have a few dollars . . . or a few hundreds of dollars . . . that you'd like to invest, meet a good person for you to consult. She's one who personifies the feminine point of view and carries it into the profession for which she's trained.

Miss Gene Wilburn

That's Miss Eugene Wilburn, an assistant account executive with a leading firm of stock brokers. She is thought to be the first "customer's woman" to operate in the South.

Miss Wilburn came to work seven years ago and spent four years with the firm in a secretarial capacity. Three years ago she passed the New York Stock Exchange examination, and that qualified her to serve as advisor to people with money to invest.

"My work is not confined to the wealthy," said Miss Wilburn. "On the contrary, we deal most often with people who want to invest a little money wisely."

She offers specific advice to women about investments. "If you have anything over $500 just lying around, it's a good idea to let it work for you. We can advise you whether it's better for you to deal in the speculative market, or if it's wiser to get safer stocks that bring in a steady income."

"If you have already invested your money," she said, "Our New York research department is at your disposal to study the portfolio of your investments, interpret them in relation to the markets, and advise if you need some changes in the stocks or bonds you hold. All this is free of charge."

Two years ago Miss Wilburn's firm held an "Investment Class for Women," where the ladies were taught the value of investing wisely and with acumen. "It may be," she said, "that if the demand is heavy enough, that school will run again soon."

Pretty, dark-haired Miss Wilburn wound up her interview by revealing the difference between a "bear" market and a "bull" market.

She smiled and said, "If people refer to a Bear market that means they either think the market is going down, or it already is going down. Vice versa, the Bull market is one that's going up."

Trouser Fashions for Ladies

PARIS, Aug. 14—(INS)—It's black lace pantalets and pink satin trousers for ladies of fashion next Fall!

This was the prediction of Paris potentate Balanenciaga, who Monday showed an Autumn design collection of siren styles for wealthy women.

Included in the much-applauded showing was an after-dark formal costume consisting of ankle-length black lace pantalets, worn under a full, bloomer-shaped shirt that belled out over the hips, then plunged inward at mid-calf length.

One of the couturier's hostess ensembles had a strapless top and long, narrow trousers of pink satin. It was worn with black stockings and flat-heeled slippers.

For both daytime and evening, Balanenciaga took his inspiration from Spain and the Orient. He liked Chinese collars, Spanish braid, and a fashion gimmick that could have been inspired by either country: Long, slim skirts slit up almost to knee-level in front.

Saltwater Taffy Began During a Nor'easter

That salt water taffy that goes with the beach is all a mistake. At least, it started as a mistake a quarter of a century ago.

The toothsome candy originated back in 1883 in Atlantic City—the one good thing that resulted from a northeast storm.

Earlier that year David Bradley had come here from Philadelphia and opened a candy kitchen on the Boardwalk. The storm almost wrecked the candy stand and damaged much of the stock.

When Bradley opened for business next day, much of the taffy was a bit on the damp side. A small girl came to make a purchase and Bradley said, "It's salt water taffy today." She spread the word and other children came asking for the "salt water taffy." He saw a chance for more sales and put up a sign advertising the new confection.

The results were good and the following year, in partnership with John Cassady, he featured salt water taffy and it has been a part of the Atlantic City scene ever since.

It's not really plaid this year. It's tartan. A plaid is a cape, shawl, blanket or garment which may or may not have a tartan on it. A tartan in an arrangement of colors on cloth, known as a sett. It is always a square arrangement. The Gaelic word for tartan, in fact, means "checkered."

There are hundreds of different tartans. Hundreds of others have been lost through the years.

Plans Made For Woman's Exposition

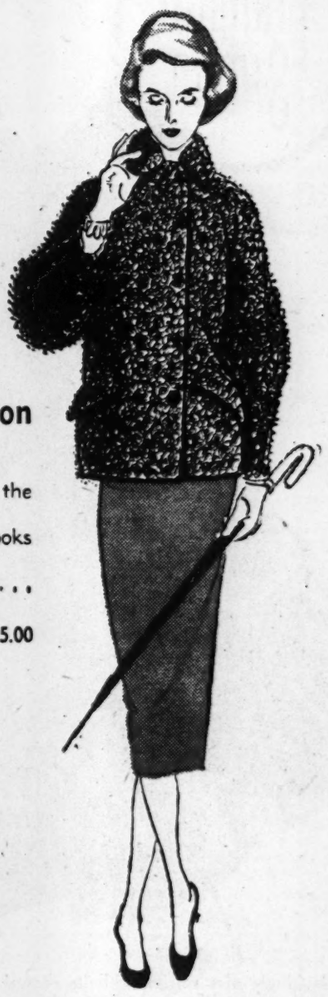

The thousands from Atlanta and Georgia as well as 30 different states and six foreign countries who visited the Woman's building at the Southeastern Fair A Ganza last year agreed it was outstanding, according to Col. R. C. Job who told the 1951 Woman's committee Tuesday of plans for this year's Fair. Competition will be keen in all classes as Georgians put their handiwork in competition with entries which come from all over the United States, he continued.

The 1951 Woman's Home Exposition is being planned as one of the big attractions. It is under the direction of Mrs. Gene Berkey and co-chairman Lucille Huffman. Other members of the women's committee include representatives of local and state women's groups who will take an active part in the Fair by acting as hostesses on the various days.

The Woman's building will include competitive exhibits, open to both men and women, on sewing, knitting, crocheting, needlepoint, wood carving, painting, ceramics, metal work, canning, and cake baking. The highlight in foods competition will be on chiffon cakes. China, silver and money awards have been announced for the winners. Entry catalogues are available by writing to The Woman's Department, P. O. Box 1006, Atlanta, Ga.

Other new and unusual exhibits are: Displays of handwork from veterans in the Southeastern area, livestock and farm equipment, and the largest armed forces exhibit ever collected.

Do Atlanta Mothers Want Ice Cream Vendors to Stay?

By CHARLES SKINNER

Nobody had asked the people most concerned—mothers of small children—what they thought about ice cream vendors.

As for gleaning a clear-cut margin of thought on the subject, maybe we would have done just as well not to, either.

A group of such mothers, contacted by random telephone calls, was asked whether they thought ice cream trucks and pushcarts should be banned from the streets or whether they thought new safety rules enacted by the vendors themselves would protect against accidents to children.

Following a perfect feminine pattern, exactly half voted to ban the vendors, another 50 per cent said leave them alone.

Mrs. Michael J. Hollyfield, of 126 Mobile Ave., N. E., mother of boys 4 and 9, is positive in her insistence that the vendors be allowed to ply their trade in peace, as long as hot-rodders are allowed to "go flying through thickly populated areas."

When a child is hit crossing a street to get a hunky, says Mrs. Hollyfield, more often than not it's the fault of a speeding or careless automobile driver.

Mrs. Fred W. Cochran, of 829 Pinehurst Dr., is just as adamant in demanding that the vendors be legislated from the streets with no further ado.

Not only do the vehicles create danger, maintains Mrs. Cochran, but the music and bells are nuisances, disturbing children during rest periods and whetting their appetites for ice cream close to meal time.

The vendors can point to Mrs. Homer W. Mauldin, of 3745 Collier Dr., as a backer.

Mrs. Mauldin maintains it would be unfair to throw them out of work, explaining that more precaution on the part of parents — and vendors — could remedy a situation which has resulted in the deaths of three Atlanta children.

Mrs. Ernest Matthews of 910 Rosedale Rd., N. E., has two small daughters but no ice cream problem. She simply doesn't allow the girls in the street, for hunkies, rolling balls, or what-have-you.

The children probably will appreciate what Mrs. Henry Doss, of 2 Du Pont Ave., N. W., has to say. Mrs. Doss argues it "wouldn't be right for the kids" to rule out their daily visit by the hunky man.

Another mother, who asked not to be named for the sake of her husband's business, said nothing yet devised by man or mother could keep a healthy child from throwing caution to the winds and running at full speed to the twin lures of music and ice cream and that, besides, drug stores carry all sorts of frozen confections.

Her sons, Ronnie and Louis, fortunately, don't give Mrs. Wendell L. Townsend, of 1307 Iverson St., N. E., any gray hairs by bursting into the street in pursuit of frigid edibles, but she is all sympathy for mothers of smaller children, whose offspring are "waked or roused into a 'fuss'" when they are denied ice cream at feeding time.

Mrs. T. E. Flury, of 1199 Hardee St., N. E., came up with an exclusive objection to the vendors. She complains that their products "spread so many germs."

Possibly the most unique defense of the confection-peddling vehicles came from a papa who slipped in his two-cents worth during the course of the phone panel.

Modern youngsters, he said, are overprotected, anyway, and need to learn how to live dangerously.

Some Foods Do Cost Less

PERCENTAGE INCREASE IN THE COST OF BASIC FOOD ITEMS - DECEMBER, 1950 TO PRESENT TIME

By AGNES REASOR OLMSTEAD

SOURCE - BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS

Rising food costs have been a reality so long that it comes as a shock to find four foods that have actually decreased in price.

It is a break for families worrying how to keep within their food budget, for fortunately these foods are basic enough to be served several times during a week in many new ways thus avoiding monotony.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the following foods have decreased in price since December, 1950: Frozen vegetables have decreased a little over one percent; frozen fish has decreased four percent; canned citrus juices 20 percent, and fresh eggs over 20 percent.

This foursome of valuable food items is important for reasons of convenience, ease of preparation, availability, and nutrition PLUS thriftiness.

There are dozens of ways to serve the frozen vegetables other than buttered. Try them creamed, scalloped, or seasoned with bacon or ham fat. Some will lend themselves to deep fat frying or pan frying also.

Quick frozen fish is cleaned and promptly frozen after it arrives at the dock. When you are ready to prepare it no cleaning is necessary, and there is no waste or odor. Try some tricks, using fish like this: in souffles, baked, deep-fat fried, broiled, creamed on baked potatoes, fish-and-chips, Creole, made into kebobs for broiling over an outdoor grill, or cooked and chilled for fish salads.

Citrus juices are just naturally good "drinkers." No one needs be told what they add to breakfast. But how about filling the thermos with sweet orange or tangerine juice, the tarter grapefruit juice or blended orange and grapefruit juices the next time a trip or picnic is on the schedule? These canned juices are fine as the liquid in a congealed salad or dessert and certainly they shouldn't be forgotten for homemade sherbets and ices.

Eggs are a wealth of health and just last week The Poultry and Egg Board home economists released their 1001 recipes for preparing eggs. Since there are so many plain and fancy ways with eggs you can serve them for breakfast, lunch, dinner, late suppers and snack fare.

For the sake of economy alone any homemaker would be wise to sit down and plan ways to include these good food buys in menus for the weeks ahead. Those in the know say these low prices will continue for at least the next two months.

Palace Denies Margaret To Announce Engagement

LONDON, Aug. 14—(U.P.)—The public is bound to be disappointed because no announcement of the engagement of Princess Margaret will be made on her twenty-first birthday, Aug. 21, an exceedingly well-informed palace source has said.

In fact, this source said, the Princess may flout royal custom by waiting until she is 26 or 27 years old before she picks her man. The source emphasizes that Margaret is not in love now and has no plans for marriage.

There has been a fury of speculation about the marriage plans of the pretty princess as her 21st birthday approaches. In fact, the public is convinced there will be some sort of announcement from Balmoral where Princess Margaret will have her birthday party.

This belief results partly from the tradition that royalty enters spinsterhood at 21 and marries as soon thereafter as possible. It is also the custom to grant separate establishments to unmarried princes or princesses after that age.

Therefore, royal fathers favor early marriage because they feel freedom is apt to be a little heady for children who have been tightly controlled.

But Margaret is strong-willed where her own life is concerned. She has told friends she is in no hurry to grab off an eligible suitor just because she is 21. She wants to fall in love as her sister Princess Elizabeth did with the tall, blond Duke of Edinburgh—a romance that Margaret boasts she helped promote.

However, the little princess —she is just over five feet tall —is a devastating flirt. A good many of the rumors linking her to first one man and then another are put down to nothing more than healthy spirits and a pair of the prettiest blue eyes in the kingdom.

Hospitalized Veterans Here To Get Writers' Aide Help

By YOLANDE GWIN

The local version of a nationwide project—The Hospitalized Veterans Writing Project, is in its formative stage today, as a result of the visit here of Mrs. Betty Hinkle Dunn, of Chicago, national president of the Theta Sigma Phi, national fraternity for women in journalism. Mrs. Dunn, recently re-elected president of the fraternity, conferred with fraternity members here regarding formation of an Atlanta Alumae Chapter, said that it was the aim of the national organization to enlist the aid of the alumnae to serve as writing aides.

"We are certainly hopeful that an Atlanta movement of this type can be arranged," said Mrs. Dunn. "It could follow the pattern of the national group formed six years ago. Through this service, hospitalized veterans who wish to write for publication or as a hobby can be assisted by professional writers who serve as volunteer Writers' Aides. Writing as a hobby and writing as recreation often means rehabilitation for the veteran."

A petition is now on its way to the National Executive Secretary, Jo Caldwell Meyer, in Austin, Texas, for the formation of an alumnae group here. The group meets on Sept. 4 at 6:30 at the Town House for the election of officers.

"Since there are 109,000 patients, not counting the Korean casualties in the 140 Veterans Hospitals across the country, and with 72 additional VA hospitals now under construction the Writers' Aides project is of utmost concern. At the Theta Sig national convention just closed in Kansas City, we adopted the theme of giving professional service to membership, community, and country."

Mrs. Dunn pointed out that with so many patients in so many hospitals it is from these groups that writing is used primarily for regaining of health and for rehabilitation. The patients write short stories, poetry, articles, experience stories, novels, etc. The men write for the hospital papers and for any type of publication open to them. Contests are held each year and cash awards are given which mean much to the hospitalized veteran.

"We feel that with 50 chapters and 12,000 members, a great deal can be done to aid these hospitalized men both financially as well as morally, by assisting them in this work," said Mrs. Dunn. "With a great number of alumnae in Georgia, I feel that this project could be given added emphasis in the South."

The Alpha Xi chapter of the fraternity at the University of Georgia is the only one in the state, and formation of an alumnae group will put the state on a competitive basis with other states in the nation, both from the standpoint of interest as well as the professional aid they can give in this nationwide project. The fraternity is the only professional group of its kind in the nation and is the feminine counterpart of the Sigma Delta Chi, the national fraternity for men in journalism.

Marriages Becoming Fewer

Soaring marriage rates which followed World War II throughout much of the world have now declined to approximately pre-war level.

In reporting on the extent to which World War II influenced marriage rates during the past decade, statisticians note that changes varied from country to country, with most pronounced effects in occupied nations and those nations actively engaged in war. In the neutrals, there was little change.

In this country the rate of 16.2 marriages per 1,000 population attained in 1946 is the highest in the nation's history and higher than any other country in the postwar period.

In general it is likely that the decline in marriage rates will continue, observe statisticians, because we are entering the period in which effects of the low birth rates during depression years will be shown with fewer people attaining marriageable age.

Bumper Baby Crop Estimated

A bumper crop of babies is in the making this year. The United States Public Health Service said tonight that during the first five months of 1951 there was a major increase in births compared with the same period last year and that the figure approached the all-time high set in 1947.

More than 1,500,000 births were registered in January through May, a gain of more than 8 per cent over 1950. The total was only a little more than 3 per cent lower than the peak for the five-month period recorded in 1947.

"Most of this year's increase was linked to a marriage license upswing that began in June, 1950, at the start of the Korean War," the report said. "If the increase in births continues through the rest of the year, 1951 will set a new record," the agency predicts.

If Baby Travels, Here're Some Tips

Best-laid plans for travel with a baby are the ones you make ahead of time. Carry an extra suitcase or basket packed with items you'll need on the trip.

Bottles, sterilized water, extra clean diapers, a few simple toys can go here. Add a can-opener and several varieties of the lighter types of baby food.

A sturdy brown paper bag for soiled clothes is a good idea and will solve the "what-to-do-with" problem.

Never feed the infant or small child just before departure. And wait until he gets accustomed to the movement before you try anything except water.

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

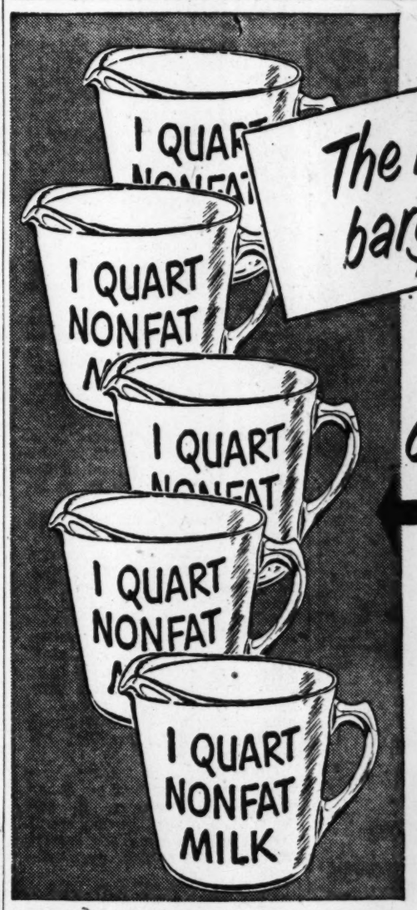

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Drygoods

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP)—The cotton textile market was dull Tuesday with easing price tendencies still apparent. There were only scattered sales of print cloths and sheetings. The 38½ inch, 64x60, 5.35 yards print cloth declined ½ a cent to 15 cents a yard spot sale in first hands.

The wool goods market was slow. Another mill was reported to have opened spring 1952 gabardine lines with prices about $1 to $1.22 a yard under fall 1951 quotations. Meanwhile, yarn mills continued to complain over the lack of new orders which may bring some further curtailment of production in that division of the industry.

Rayon goods were quiet. There was a little more interest in some of the acetate taffeta numbers, with prices steadier. Generally the market remained depressed due to lack of business.

OPS Sticks To Ruling On Brackets

Warns Violators Of Prosecution

The Office of Price Stabilization in Atlanta late Tuesday stood pat on its recent order creating a new system of brackets for the collection of Georgia's sales tax and insisted that it intends to prosecute violators of its order.

At the same time, the wave of protests against the new bracket system mounted higher both in Atlanta and in Washington, and present indications are that the majority of the merchants of the state are still adhering to the old voluntary system of brackets.

PATTERSON'S VIEW

In discussing this situation, George D. Patterson, Jr., OPS Regional Director in Atlanta said: "Although we expect voluntary compliance by the great majority of business men, we will enforce this as well as other ceiling-price regulations, with vigor."

However, OPS officials here said official notices of the new ruling were being put in the mails only Tuesday, and it might take several days for all the state's retailers to receive these notices. Spokesmen for the various trade associations, whose members are now operating under the old bracket system, conceded that upon receipt of the new OPS order most retailers would put it into effect.

PLAN OFFERED

Advices from Washington say OPS officials have informed Georgia's Senators and members of the House of Representatives of two ways to end the existing confusion regarding the bracket system here in Georgia. One way is for Charles Redwine, the Georgia Commissioner of Revenue, to set up a bracket system of his own. The other suggested way is for the Attorney General of Georgia to make a ruling on the dispute regarding the two bracket systems.

In Atlanta, James F. Hollingsworth, district director for OPS, said that during the day between 30 and 40 Georgians had complained to his office about merchants who they said had overcharged them in collecting the sales tax. On the other hand, OPS officials here said merchants from all over the state were complaining to OPS the new bracket system would cause them to lose money on the collection of the sales tax.

CONSIDER PROPOSAL

Various Chambers of Commerce and other organizations of businessmen throughout the state are considering the proposal to ask Commissioner Redwine to end the present confusion in reference to the proper bracket system by simply designating a bracket system of his own. Under the law creating OPS, such a designation would place the bracket system outside the bounds of OPS.

However, Redwine remains still of the opinion that the Georgia law creating the sales tax prohibits him from making such a ruling and Attorney General Cook, whose opinion could resolve the dispute, is still on a trip to Oregon.

OPS officials reiterated here Tuesday that they had no interest in the collection of Georgia's sales tax, but were interested solely in the maintenance of ceiling prices. In the absence of an official state sales-tax bracket system, they contend the only way OPS can maintain ceiling prices in Georgia is to set up an official OPS bracket system.

Stocks Drift With Sales; Steels Rally

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—Despite some firmness in the final hour under the leadership of the steel shares, prices on the stock market Tuesday closed irregularly lower in the slowest trading for nearly a month. There was no pronounced selling on the lower movement and losses generally were confined to fractions. A feature of the session was the strength in American Telephone which sold at its high of the year and finished at a net gain of a point at 159¼.

The volume declined to 1,180,000 shares, the smallest since July 19, compared with 1,320,000 on Monday. Of the 1,093 issues dealt in 437 declined, 363 advanced and 294 were unchanged. During the session, 22 issues reached new highs for the year.

The market opened active and firm, with numerous blocks of 1,000 to 2,500 shares changing hands. The early firmness, however, soon disappeared. Around noon, the rails began to develop resistance to the selling pressure and this soon spread to a large part of the list. Trading continued light and in the fourth hour the volume dropped to 170,000 shares.

National Power & Light, now a holding company for a New York and East Coast restaurant chain, was the most active issue, but it dropped ¼ point to 2¼ with 43,000 shares traded. It was followed by Fedders-Quigan, up ⅜ at 12 and Union Oil of California, up ¼ at 40.

The steel issues generally were firm. Bethlehem added ¼ at 51¼ and United States ⅛ at 41¼. National Steel declined a small fraction. The motors were a bit easier, with Chrysler off ¼ at 72 and General Motors, which sold ex-dividend, ⅛ at 48⅞. Aircraft issues held steady and United advanced ¼ to 29¼.

The oil shares were in moderate supply. Standard of New Jersey lost ⅝ to 68⅜ and Texas Company, Standard of California and Socony-Vacuum eased small fractions, Gulf Oil and Ohio Oil, however, gained fractionally. Standard of Ohio set another high at 41⅛.

Chemical issues were mixed. Du Pont declined ⅝ to 98½ and Allied was off fractionally. Union Carbide, moved up ⅝ to 64⅞. In the non-ferrous mining group, Kennecott and Anaconda both gained slightly.

Cotton Futures Close Lower

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP)—Cotton futures were lower Tuesday in slow trading. Increased hedge selling reflecting more activity at the Southern spots markets discouraged rallying tendencies. Trade buying was mostly scales down in nature. Mill demand for contracts was light as the textile market failed to show any improvement in demand.

Private advices reported there was no rain in Texas Monday, with temperatures high and forecasts still higher Tuesday. However, sentiment among a number of traders was that cotton losses in Texas due to heat and drought may be offset by an improvement elsewhere in the belt. The government weekly weather report was generally favorable except for parts of Texas.

Futures closed 95 cents to $1.40 a bale lower than the previous close.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Aug. 14—(Federal-State)—Livestock receipts totaled 500 cattle, 150 calves and 1,000 hogs at the eight major packing plants at Albany, Columbus, Moultrie, Thomasville and Tifton, Ga.; Dothan, Ala., and Jacksonville and Tallahassee, Fla.

Hog prices were steady to weak Tuesday. Most major plants quoted choice soft and semihard 180-240 pound barrows and gilts at $22.00 to $22.25, a few down to $21.75. Medium hogs these weights brought $21.50 and less. Most plants bought choice 160-180 pound offerings at $21.25 to $21.75, and choice 235-325 pound barrows and gilts at $20.50 to $21.75. Medium and choice 140-160 pound offerings brought $19.50 to $20.75. The bulk of sows ranged from $17.00 to $19.25.

Grain Prices Close Lower

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—(AP)—Grains worked lower at the Board of Trade Tuesday, with corn resisting the decline on reports of light export business.

Wheat was influenced by an optimistic private report of the Canadian wheat crop, and there was considerable new crop hedging pressure. Traders said new export news was lacking as was the mill buying of Monday.

Country offerings of corn were fairly light and Norway was credited with taking a cargo of corn. Germany took a cargo of grain sorghums.

There was nothing in the day's trading to offset a department of agriculture report that fats would be plentiful during the coming months, with the result that soybeans and lard sold off.

At the finish wheat was ⅞ to 1⅜ lower than Monday's close, September $2.40⅝-½. Corn was ¾ to ⅞ lower September $1.73¼-⅛. Oats were ⅛ higher to ⅞ lower, September 80¾. Rye (new) was 1¾ to 2½ lower, September 1.73½-73. Soybeans were 1¾ to 2½ lower, September $2.87-87¼ and lard was 25 to 35 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $17.30.

Sugar Futures

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP)—World sugar futures were irregular today, but displayed a steadier tone, following recent liquidation. Indications of some renewed demand for Cuban raws in the world market was a steadying influence.

Havana advisers reported that Cuba has sold 10,000 tons of raws to Europe at 5.40 cents a pound fob. Holland and France were the buyers.

Domestic sugars were steady and the tone in the raw market improved.

Sellers were less inclined to press offerings with only a limited quantity of raws openly offered at 6.00 cents a pound delivered.

Demand for refined was slow.

Men, Maids and Stuff

A son for Col. Joe Foss and his Missus (Foss—was a World War II Medal of Honor winner). . . . On hot Summer week ends, even the pigeons desert New York. . . . U. S. Air Force still chilly toward Britain's request for frames of America's F-86s. England would power them with its Saphire jet engine, use them in the defensive role which the Spitfire performed over London (original North Atlantic Treaty assignments pictured U. S. contributing long-range strategic aircraft and sharing naval responsibility, with England supplying shorter-range planes, and France supplying bulk of ground troops. U. S. has exceeded all of its obligations, including 300,000 ground troops for Europe). . . . Chicago fans say their White Sox aren't gambling on the basepaths, as they did successfully early in the season.

Tallulah Bankhead became a Giant fan, reveals John Lardner, while playing in "The Little Foxes," acquiring the Giant bug from actor Lee Baker. In her 12 years as a Giant fan, she's hexed the team. Tallulah burned most when she took an English actor to the Polo Grounds. Surveying the three umpires, he asked: "Who are those three chauffeurs?" . . . Jean Wallace and Cornel Wilde cooling. . . . Josephine Baker may shorten her tour in this country because of her health, laryngitis. . . . Shirley Yamaguchi, Japanese star, attracting starers at El Morocco. . . . Final release of the March of Time series, is footage on "Formosa." . . . A $30,000 shrine dedicated to the memory of the six million martyred Jews of Europe will be unveiled Sept. 16 at Beth Israel Memorial Park, Woodbridge, N. J.

Tallulah Bankhead

What's this about the Buddy Rogers (Mary Pickford)? . . . Ann Miller, daughter of Congressman George Miller of California, to wed Donald Muir next month. Mrs. Harold Shattuck recovering from minor surgery. Richard Ney, Greer Garson's ex, now the darling of Italian royalty. . . . Washington alerted for a September outbreak in revolt-ridden Bolivia. Ilona Massey bedded, virus. Gene Fowler's next bio, Red Skelton. . . . Judy Garland and daughter in from Europe. . . . Pat Wymore Flynn has been in town alone for almost a week. . . . Bonnie Baker lost her premature twins. 225 sponsored TV programs have been dropped in the last year. . . . "While the pen may be mightier than the sword, 'The Quill' is a dubious and dangerous weapon for N. Y. police to utilize," says Representative Henry J. Latham.

President Truman feels West Point cadets should be punished, but not kicked out of the academy, say White House intimates. . . . Tennessee Williams doing research on the late Huey Long for his next yarn. . . . Jerri Higgins, the former Mrs. Paul Douglas, hospitalized. . . . Dolores Del Rio trying a night club comeback. . . . The Warren Johnsons (Connie Woodworth) back from their European honeymoon. . . . Lina Romay prefers maestro Artie Wayne. . . . Winston Churchill's "Closing the Ring," the fifth volume, set for, November. . . . Orson Welles, who was to return here to make a big splash in TV, will stay in England, to star in a London play. . . . Sterling Hayden undergoing knee surgery. . . . Charlie Barnet dating Trudy Richards. . . . In her flicker with Bob Hope and Roy Rogers, Jane Russell will be dressed as a man. This is miscasting, brothers!

Solution to Yesterday's Puzzle

Dr. BRADY

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Fine Climate

Kindly send a list of places with climate suitable for person recuperating from tuberculosis. (B. F. W.)

Answer—Any place where the patient can live most of the time outdoors.

Sculpture of Ears

Girl, 7, has ears that stand out. (Mrs. O. H.)

Daughter born with top of ear flapped down close to bottom part. Have kept it taped to head. Now at five months it is upright but still stands out from head. (Mrs. M. R. C.)

Answer—Usually such faulty formations require surgical correction. Your family physician or any reputable physician you know will recommend a reliable plastic surgeon. The earlier the sculptural surgery is done, the more satisfactory the result. The surgeon will name his fee and give an estimate of the hospital expense.

IGNORANCE

I am tired of reading your ignorant articles, specially, when you say a "cold" is not caught in chilly weather. I resent your spreading false information . . . because of the sweat on my head I caught a cold . . . I am able to knock the cold out quickly by taking . . . tablets. (O. O. S.)

Answer—This is a free country. You catch 'em that way if you wish. But please keep at least five feet away from me when you are coming down with or "knocking out" one.

DOPE

Please give some advice about the use of seconal. One I love very much scoffs at the idea that seconal is harmful, uses it daily since getting over a serious illness. (Mrs. H. T.)

Answer—Seconal is one of the barbiturates. Others are Alurate, Amytal, Barbital, Dial, Ipral, Neonal, Pentobarbital, Pentothal, Phanodorn, Phenobarbital. All are sedative, hypnotic, more or less narcotic and habit forming. Read the chapter about the barbiturates in the green book: NERVES AND NUTRITION, for which send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope. Under the attending physician's control, a barbiturate may be a great aid in treatment, but it is questionable whether a physician should ever dispense or prescribe more than a single dose of such dangerous medicine.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed with a request to Dr. Brady, care of The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Hot Storage Houses Advised for Tobacco

RALEIGH, N. C.—(AP)—Although aromatic tobacco is sun cured, growers can reduce the chances of damage to the leaf by adding some heat to their buildings during periods of bad weather, says Roy H. Crouse, agronomy specialist for the State College Extension Service.

When damp weather occurs, says Crouse, the heat in buildings housing curing racks should be kept at 90 to 100 degrees. In this way the curing process can be continued in the barn and the chances of damaging tobacco through molding or barn scald will be reduced.

GM, Ford Plan To Double Car Output Capacity Here

$15 Million in New Construction, 2,500 New Jobs Are Indicated

By BILL BORING

Both General Motors at Doraville and Ford Motor Co. at Hapeville plan expansion programs that will double their plants and production capacity.

Fred B. Moore, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, said the two companies have advised him of this. Moore said he was told the expansion programs will be undertaken just as soon as building conditions will permit.

Currently, expansions for the peacetime production of automobiles as well as most other products are more or less frozen because of the country's tremendous defense mobilization program in which both General Motors and Ford are big participants.

$15 MILLION

A doubling of the two big automotive operations would mean an expenditure of approximately $15,000,000 in plant construction, additional employment for about 2,500 persons, and millions more in payrolls.

General Motors alone, for example, has a Georgia payroll of more than $15,000,000, most of it going to Atlantans.

The two huge automobile assembly plants were erected here in 1947 and 1948 and at the time it was estimated that either of them, singly, would represent a manufacturing operation surpassing this city's entire manufacturing industry in 1908.

General Motors' Doraville plant, which assembles Buicks, Oldsmobiles and Pontiacs, comprises 1,100,000 square feet of floor space. The Ford plant at Hapeville originally comprised 489,346 square feet of production space, but has been constantly expanded.

PARTS DEPOT

Ford even now is in the midst of a vast expansion program, the chief item of which is the construction of a 138,000-square-foot parts depot in the Empire Industrial Development in East Point.

General Motors in the past year has added several hundred thousand square feet of floor space at Doraville, Moore said.

Original investment in both the Ford and General Motors plant was about $6,000,000 each.

Moore discussed the projected Ford and General Motors expansion programs in a speech Tuesday before the Atlanta Kiwanis Club. He said in the past two years alone employment for an additional 100,000 persons has been created as a result of new industries establishing here.

"The city has now reached the 'snow-balling' stage," he declared, "and it is hard to keep up with the many new industries, branch offices and business concerns that are locating here."

Additional square feet of floor space recently completed or now under construction in the Metropolitan Atlanta area was listed by Moore as follows:

In the Chattahoochee Industrial District on the Seaboard Airline: Westinghouse (maintenance and repair) 120,000; Davison-Paxon warehouse 300,000; Caterpillar Tractor (depot) 20,000; Southern Woodwork Products 20,000; Acme Bonded Warehouse 10,000; Standard Brands 12,000; Borden Company 15,000; Eagle-Picher Paint Co. 20,000; E. Burglar Ransacks Marietta Club

MARIETTA, Aug. 14—Police Tuesday were searching for a persistent burglar who got between $700 and $800 from the Elks Club.

Police said the thief entered the two-story clubhouse by a front window facing Waverly Drive and attempted to enter an upstairs room.

Masonic Temple Cornerstone Yields Strongbox of 1907

After four decades of isolation inside the cornerstone of the old Masonic Temple building, a strongbox bearing what Mayor Hartsfield termed "relics of a past age" was brought into the light of a 1951 afternoon Tuesday.

A look at Atlanta newspapers dated May 8, 1907, which were among souvenirs stored beneath the cornerstone when it was laid more than 40 years ago, would seem to bear out the Mayor's words, "past age."

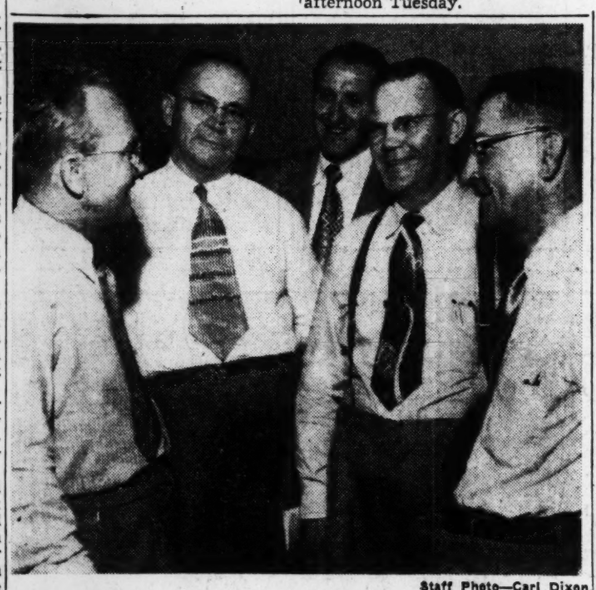

A New Jersey woman was killed when her automobile overturned as she was racing a passenger train, "driving at the terrific pace" of 50 miles an hour. A woman near Monroe died of injuries after she was trampled beneath the wheels of a buggy by a runaway horse.

A two-story modern home—eight rooms, deep lot and servant house in rear—was advertised for sale at $4,750. A six-room flat with bath, electric lights, gas and "all modern conveniences," could be rented for $30 a month.

However, the "excellent salary" offered an "experienced stenographer and bookkeeper" amounted to only $75 a month.

Rain almost postponed the laying of the cornerstone in 1907 and, fittingly, a few drops of rain fell upon spectators gathered near the corner of Peachtree and Cain for its removal. The corner lot sold for 150 times the price paid for it by the Masons.

The strongbox was not opened Tuesday, but was put in safekeeping with two cornerstones, the one laid in 1907 and another intended for a temple which was never built. Both stones and strongbox are to be incorporated in a projected new temple.
